Carmel seeks greater water allocation

By ROBERT MISKIMON

CARMEL is ready to go to war with the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District over its municipal water allocation.

Carmel City Administrator Doug Peterson believes a technical adjustment in the allocation scheme could yield the city an additional yearly supply of water.

City council members agree that Carmel has somehow come out on the short end of the water deal, and they have authorized Peterson to approach the water district for an increase.

Peterson expressed the concerns of the city council in a letter to the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, which was referred to the policy and technical advisory committees for review at the May 10 board meeting.

Council members took the action at their May 4 meeting and also directed Peterson to provide them with a detailed report on possible water conservation measures at a future meeting.

The amount of water set aside for Carmel under a 1979 allocation plan has been a source of more-or-less constant grumbling among city officials since the water district notified Carmel last September that it used 93.5 percent of its share in 1980-81.

Under that formula, Carmel is entitled to 1,109 ac. ft. of the 20,000 ac. ft. supply of the California-American Water Co. Because of its small size and low development potential, Carmel may have become the guinea pig among Monterey Peninsula cities under the allocation rule, Peterson believes.

The 1979 allocation system was based on water use by individual cities, coupled with a demand projection by the water management district to the year 2,000, based upon adopted plans for the various cities.

"Since many of the jurisdictions contemplate large commercial and residential developments within their boundaries, the amount of water which is added to their 1979

Widen Highway 1

Dear Editor:

I have been a resident of Carmel Knolls since 1962, having purchased a lot in 1960. At no time were my husband and I informed by the developer of a planned roadway through Hatton Canyon. Right-of-way acquisition was not completed until July 1966.

The logistics involved, mainly due to the severe topography, in the construction of any kind of road through the canyon are overwhelming. The proposed grade, as steep as 7.8 percent, is dangerous and unsafe, even if minimized by a split-level or lower-standard roadway. Construction would be environmentally damaging.

Just a few of the problems would be massive cuts and fills, requiring a large earth-moving operation; tree removal; both disposal and borrowing of materials would be near to impossible in the general area. Period of construction, even reasonably estimated, would be normally 18 to 25 months, excluding time required to relocate portions of the sewer line in the canyon.

The widening of existing Route 1 highway, with several widening variations possible, can be accommodated within the existing right-of-way. Depending upon type of expansion, cost estimate is $400,000 to $3.7 million, compared to $17.1 million for the canyon roadway.

We must consider rescission of the adopted freeway location and start planning the widening of the existing highway corridor, .7 mile.

Where is all this freeway traffic going when it reaches the southern end? I foresee this as a deplorable situation.

Have you driven in the San Francisco or Los Angeles areas lately?

'Mad as hell'

Dear Editor:

I couldn't believe the news: "Stillwater Cove waters closed."

Closed because of fecal and coliform counts and exceeded health and safety laws. "No swimming or bathing allowed."

How many of you remember the summer of 1969 when all of Monterey Bay was declared contaminated and off-limits? 1969 was the year Nixon finally got into the White House on a landslide vote.

1969 — when everyone who had previously refused, finally admitted after the 1968 Tet offensive, that we should get out of the land war in Southeast Asia.

Today, May 3, 1982, I'm somewhat more informed, as much as an eighth grade-reading high school dropout could be with those limitations.

I don't understand how 140 homes, for whatever rationalization can be used, aren't hooked into the main sewage line at this late, late environmental date. No, I don't care and I don't want to hear anything any more from anyone about anything.

I'm fed up and mad as hell (I've always been mad) and I can't take it anymore. I'll only tell you this: when the proper time and set of circumstances come to a head in the near future I plan to fight, I don't care who, when, or how. I'm just going to fight.

And I advise you all to stay out of the way because you'll lose; I can assure you of that.

Monitor the oceans

Dear Editor:

The Navy is pressing hard to have the ban on ocean dumping lifted by the Reagan administration so it can unload its old atomic subs and radioactive liquid. If the Navy dumps its contaminated refuse in the oceans, they'll encourage other government agencies to seek similar privileges. Moreover, many other countries, loaded with nuclear crap, may start sea disposal if U.S. ignores the Law of the Sea Treaty recently approved by 138 nations.

Nearly all experts agree that a radioactive food chain has a detrimental effect on the nation's health. Thus, no one in their right mind wants radioactive waste dumped in their coastal waters once the long-ranged health effects are fully understood.

As existing land dumpsites for radwaste fill up, pressure mounts to use the defenseless Pacific as a convenient cesspool to hide atomic garbage. This is made the easier as voting citizens can't readily see it and helpless fish can neither vote nor complain.

However, it's Congress' responsibility to monitor the oceans, the cradle of life. Congress must man battle stations and completely expose Reagan's policies, before allowing the Navy to dump more nuclear junk on top of the already existing radioactive ring around America.

Appreciates new mayor

Dear Editor:

Mayor Charlotte Townsend conducts a good council meeting.

Carmel council meetings are unique public forums. It's refreshing to see Mayor Townsend aware of the public's need to be heard, and at the same time in touch with procedure and protocol. Our new mayor's even handed approach to the chair will be appreciated by both the public and her fellow council people.

Distortion of facts

Dear Editor:

It is most unfortunate that advocates of the Hatton Canyon Freeway find it necessary to resort to an apparent distortion of facts in order to urge its construction. We and others in Carmel Knolls take exception to a statement made recently in a letter to the Carmel Pine Cone, stating that all the original property owners in the sub-division were told of plans for a Hatton Canyon Freeway. The facts are, in our opinion, otherwise and documented:

Point 1: We took title to our property, lot No. 7 in Carmel Knolls No. 3 on July 7, 1960. We also purchased lots Nos. 4 and 6. The title policy map given us at that time showed ownership of the adjacent canyon vested "Fuller-Hudson." At no time prior were we informed by the Fisher-Dorsey firm of any proposed canyon development. On the contrary, when questioned about the path in the canyon floor, the sales representative informed us that it was owned by the California State Department of Forestry for a fire trail.

Point 2: The State of California subdivision report, dated, Sept. 3, 1959, issued from information supplied by Monterey Peninsula Associates, developers, and their agents Fisher-Dorsey, contained no reference to a possible freeway contiguous to Carmel Knolls.

Point 3: In the Carmel Knolls sales brochure, there was no mention whatsoever of the proposed freeway.

Under "zoning protection" in the same sales brochure, there was assurance that the area would be single family residential. Nevertheless, in 1962, the developers made a concerted effort to put through a zoning change for the construction of a filling station which was defeated. Three more attempts to alter the character of the area with a Foster Freeze, a professional building, and a resort motel were abandoned in the face of local opposition.

We have had enough!

Don't leash cats

Dear Editor:

Let us be clear that a leash law for cats would be tantamount to outlawing cats in Carmel. A cat can be trained to a leash only if the owner begins training with a tiny kitten and is very patient and skillful at the undertaking.

We have had Siamese cats for 20 years. They were trained to walk with harness and leash at the age of six months. It can be done. But the proposed ordinance could only be enforced by destroying the current cat population in Carmel and introducing felines of a completely different orientation.

Nuclear initiative is long overdue

By ROBERT MISKIMON

WHAT DO YOU say to your nine-year-old daughter when she asks: "Will there be a World War III?"

The question — posed to me last week — brought home the reality of the terror of the nuclear age more directly than any discussion of SALT II, missile parity, or the escalation of the defense budget.

Obviously, it is not only adults who are aware of, and threatened by the probability — no longer a remote possibility — of nuclear holocaust. In this light, the recent effort to qualify the "nuclear freeze" initiative for the California ballot in November is a sign of a healthy, grass roots attempt to force a halt to the proliferation of nuclear weapons.

Although the Carmel City Council, when asked last week to endorse the petition, chose not to do so (as reported elsewhere in this issue), several individual council members indicated their strong personal support for the measure.

What seems most significant about this movement is that small groups of citizens, working in their local communities, have begun to tackle a global issue that adversely affects all of humanity.

This localized approach may accomplish what decades of international summit conferences have failed to bring about — bilateral de-escalation of the nuclear arms race.

Thirty years of living in the constant shadow of nuclear war has taken its toll, both on the citizens and economies of the two major world powers — The U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. Many of our economic, social, and political ills can be traced to this single, pervasive fact of life.

Anything that can be done to remove the nuclear Sword of Damocles from the human race for future generations is the best legacy any of us could leave, and the current initiative drive is a good step in that direction.

The Mayor's Report

Let's hear from Carmel citizens

By CHARLOTTE TOWNSEND

Dear Friends, Neighbors, Fellow Carmelites and Other Interested Readers: Will you help me?

Rather than being just a "Report from the Mayor" I would prefer this column to be a "Report" from you, Carmel's Citizens — a means to express your concerns and find answers to your questions. Do you have any "Why is ...?" or "What if ...?" Praise for a job well done or comments on something that needs improving?

Will you please let me know about them by writing to: Mayor's Report, Box CC, Carmel-by-the-Sea, Calif. 93921, or call City Hall, 624-2781 and leave your number and I'll call back as soon as I can. If you'd like to talk to me, make an appointment to see me either Monday or Wednesday afternoon at City Hall. I haven't developed an exact format; maybe we could make this column sort of a combination of question-and-answer and a civic event-type of Ann Landers! Please remember ... your concerns are mine and it is by "working together" that we will cope with the many issues facing Carmel.

And, speaking of that, at the last two council meetings we have appointed and reappointed some very fine and talented people to help in the "work" of good government.

Cats are among the more independent of creatures. They cannot be penned in wire enclosures, unless one wants to listen to nerve shattering yowls. But they can be chased off one's property by simply using a garden hose.

Praises Community Center

Dear Editor:

My name is Cynthia O'Rourke. I live in Carmel Valley and my son, Sean, attends the Carmel Valley Community Center after school program.

This program is currently directed by Vicky Owen, and was started by Franny Leary last year. The facility is large and there are many toys and activities for the kids to play with, most, if not all, donated.

I am not currently employed, so my need for child care tends to vary. However, if Sean had a choice, I believe he would choose to attend the program every day. When I arrive to Richard Barrett has been appointed to the planning commission, and Arthur Mertens and James Wright reappointed to that body.

For the forestry commission, Brian Steen was appointed, and to the cultural commission, George Gore. Earl Powers has joined the traffic committee.

Also, in an attempt to broaden input into the General Plan Advisory Committee, we hope to form an "Auxiliary Committee" with service on the advisory committee on a rotating basis. I hope more of you will try to attend at least some meetings, and will express your thoughts to the people who are commenting on this plan which will be such an integral part of Carmel's future.

Last Saturday evening I was pleased to attend the Santa Barbara Ballet's performance of Romeo and Juliet at Sunset Auditorium. The beauty, the energy, and the overall excellence of this troupe was remarkable, and the sold out performance an indication of the enthusiasm with which they were received.

Madame Lilli Selvig took me back stage after the performance to meet "Juliet," Tishia Hicks, (whose mother lives in Carmel) and "Nurse" to Juliet, Tamara Usher, who also is artistic Director of the Company. This type of event adds to — and enriches — Carmel's cultural tradition. Let's hope there are many more like it.

pick him up he is usually totally engrossed in an activity, either by himself or with another child, and I usually have to tell him more than once that it is time to leave.

The atmosphere there is consistently positive, warm and energetic. The children seem to have an awareness of their boundaries which are firmly maintained.

I am very pleased that Sean attends this program, and also, that he desires to go. I wish there were programs like this for all parents and children who need or desire after school child care. It is a great pleasure for me to know that he is there since it is so consistently positive for him.

I am writing this letter to bring to your readers' awareness the positive contribution made by this facility, and to encourage other parents to use and support it.

Council approves Surfabout contest...

SURFERS from all over Monterey County will take to Carmel Beach June 5-6 for the third annual Surfabout Competition. The event has been given the blessings of the Carmel City Council.

SURF'S UP!

And Carmel Beach will be the gathering spot for surfers from all over Monterey County June 5-6 for the third annual Surfabout Competition.

The Carmel City Council gave its blessings last week to Brad Johnson of Carmel, organizer of the event, to hold the surfing competition again this year.

About 175 surfers participated in last year's event, and "a couple of thousand" spectators lined the beach, Johnson said.

The council granted permission to Johnson to erect three banners, each about three feet by 12 feet, on the beach in conjunction with the contest. It also gave Johnson permission to place a blackboard on the beach measuring about four feet by six feet, to put up a judges' scaffold about six feet high, and to rope off the judging area.

The Business License and Code Review Board is to discuss Johnson's plans with him and to consider the specific details of the banners, scaffold, and roped area.

Events to be included in the contest are surfing competition for boys, juniors, men, and masters; long boarding; skim boarding; boogie boarding; wind surfing; women's surfing; distance paddling races; relay, paddle and running races; knee boarding; and tandem surfing.

Johnson, who operates a surfing equipment shop in Monterey, said the event is actually more of a "beach festival" than just a surfing contest.

"We call this the Surfabout, which is an Australian term, instead of a 'surf contest' because it encompasses more than just surfing," Johnson explained.

"It is more of a beach festival than just a surf contest; however the surfing competition is taken very seriously by the contestants. Our first contest at Carmel Beach three years ago was the first surfing competition held on the Peninsula in 10 years."

Despite the fact that some type of surfing competition is held almost monthly in Santa Cruz, there has really never been a locally-organized surfing event for local surfers on the Monterey Peninsula, Johnson said.

"We're proud of this event because we base the entire thing on fun, and that mood is what makes it great," Johnson explained. "Fun is stressed over results."

Participation in the Surfabout Competition will be limited to Monterey County residents, although organizers have been "under pressure" to open it up to others, he added. Limitation to county residents keeps the event local in character and manageable in size, Johnson said.

Carmel City Forester Greg D'Ambrosio enthused after the first Surfabout that the event had been "most positive" and praised Johnson for having planned the event with "the utmost professionalism."

D'Ambrosio noted that those who participated in the event helped to clean up the beach afterwards and left the beach free of litter. It is "one of the best organized, most orderly beach functions" in Carmel, the city forester said.

An awards banquet is planned at Rancho Canada Country Club after the Sunday competition, Johnson indicated.

... but may prohibit fireworks on Fourth of July

THE SPECTRE of the Fourth of July will confront the Carmel City Council when it meets May 18.

Neither City Administrator Doug Peterson nor the Carmel Forestry Commission wants fireworks to be allowed on the beach, and a council with three newly-elected members will consider the controversial matter at 7:30 p.m.

The city administrator is scheduled to brief the council on past problems with crowds, fireworks, bonfires, and litter and to offer possible solutions.

After last year's Fourth of July celebration, the council discussed a recommendation by Peterson to ban fireworks on the beach, but did not enact the prohibition.

Peterson still believes fireworks should be prohibited, and the forestry commission last week reaffirmed its position — originally taken last year — in support of a fireworks ban.

The recent cancellation of the fireworks display in Pacific Grove may lend impetus to a similar move in Carmel, Peterson indicated.

"We only allow Safe and Sane fireworks on the beach, but 70 percent of what's discharged on the beach is illegal because it's not Safe and Sane," Peterson said.

Estimates of crowds at Carmel Beach for the last Fourth of July ran to some 10,000 persons. There were problems with crowd control, beach bonfires, and litter — in addition to illegal fireworks.

"I've already said I don't think the fireworks should be allowed," Peterson said. "That's one of the major attractions for people who come for the Fourth of July; you've got to try to take the top off the number of people who come some way."

David Maradei, who was elected to the city council last month, supported a fireworks ban when he was on the forestry commission last year. The commission last week unanimously reaffirmed its recommendation that the council prohibit all fireworks, and that Scenic Drive be closed to traffic on Independence Day.

The council is scheduled to give second reading to an ordinance introduced at its May 4 meeting to require leashes on dogs and other animals — except domestic cats — in the residential area of Carmel.

The council will also consider, at the request of Councilman Frank Lloyd, a position on limestone mining at Pico Blanco in Big Sur. Public hearings on appeals from several planning commission decisions will be heard. They involve seating requirements for Anton and Michel at Mission Street and 7th Avenue, and an application for Sade's Bar on Ocean Avenue to serve food.

General Plan Committee rejects proposal to increase membership

THE CARMEL General Plan Advisory Committee believes its new game of "musical alternates" will lead to more public participation and a better working document.

A plan by Councilwoman Helen Arnold to increase the committee membership to 15 was rejected by the group May 6.

Mrs. Arnold's plan called for committee members to work on elements in their field of expertise. After that element was reviewed, the member would give up his seat to another person interested in a separate element.

However, acting Chairwoman Jean Grace called the proposal "cumbersome" and "detrimental."

The committee recommended that a list of all alternates be approved by the council. The alternates would receive background material and be asked to attend the sessions.

The alternates would be listed and when a regular committee member is absent, the first alternate would be chosen to step in. Once the meeting is over, that alternate would be dropped to the bottom of the list.

Under the committee plan, the alternates would serve when asked and would not necessarily be called when an element in their specific field of interest is on the agenda.

If the alternate first on the list is not present at the meeting when called, his name would be automatically dropped to the bottom of the list.

Mrs. Grace said Mrs. Arnold's original proposal was "detrimental" because "the place for input is in front of the podium. We felt it was counter-productive."

Mrs. Grace said it would be "impossible" to sit 15 people around the council podium.

"If they are really interested, they will attend the meetings," she said. "It would force these people to be ready and to attend. They can always come up and talk as a member of the public. We don't limit people who have something to say."

Mayor Charlotte Townsend agreed with the recommendation of the committee. "What everybody hopes is that there will be more public participation. The more public input we can get, the better off we are," the mayor said.

Mrs. Arnold said she felt that several people want to serve on the committee, but they can not spend the time to review all of the elements.

"We've encountered a certain amount of reluctance from people who don't want to tackle the whole thing," she said. "They are interested in specific elements."

The council is expected to discuss committee membership when it meets May 18. The next session of the committee is May 20.

THE CROWD at Carmel Beach numbered around 10,000 persons at last year's Fourth of July celebration, and the Carmel City Council is to consider a possible ban on fireworks and other controls when it meets May 18.

Odellos will go slowly with development plans

EASTERN PORTION of the Odello Ranch could be developed into as many as 162 residences under the Carmel Area Local Coastal Program conditionally approved by the Coastal Commission last week. The nine-acre "blister" proposed for flood control is visible at left.

Planners to consider change in driveway rules in Carmel

THE CARMEL Planning Commission will review a proposed ordinance that would eliminate driveways and sidewalks from inclusion in maximum lot coverage regulations when it meets at 4 p.m., May 19 at city hall.

The ordinance was proposed because there is a trend to build garages as close to the street as possible to save on the amount of driveway.

The ordinance was scheduled to be heard by the land use committee yesterday (May 12).

Under city regulations, a one-story residence is limited to a maximum 40 percent lot coverage and two-story buildings cannot cover more than 35 percent of the lot.

With the elimination of impermeable surfaces such as sidewalks and driveways, the residential building site could be larger.

In other action, the commission will review an exterior change for the proposed Giorgio's Italian Cafe, south side of Ocean Avenue between Mission and San Carlos Streets. The land use committee has recommended denial.

The applicants would like to change the front entrance to allow for an "opening" effect. The door would just be opened slightly in the morning and then it would be opened up completely by lunchtime.

The application has stirred some controversy in the Village because the Italian cafe would replace Dock Lor's Chinese Canton Restaurant. Lor said he does not want to retire and does not want to move.

If the commission does grant the exterior change, the proposal would have to be approved by the city council because the building has "significant" status.

Another hearing on the use permit for Giorgio's will be held by the Board of Adjustments May 26.

The commission will also consider an ordinance to ban earth satellite stations larger than 10 feet in diameter because of possible visual effects on the city.

The ordinance has been heard several times by the commission, but was sent back to the land use committee for technical word changes.

All ordinances recommended by the committee must be approved by the city council before they become law.

THE ODELO family will wait and see exactly what the Coastal Commission approval of the Carmel Area Local Coastal Program means for the future of the eastern 134 acres of artichoke fields.

The commission conditionally approved the land use plan and sent the document back to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors for acceptance of those conditions.

Coastal Commissioners agreed with the board of supervisors that the Odellos should be permitted to develop as many as 162 residential units on the portion of Odello east not needed for flood control purposes.

The coastal staff, in response to the county proposal, raised a number of objections. The county plan would conflict with the Coastal Act by allowing conversion of prime agricultural land, and would permit development in the Carmel River floodplain, the staff indicated.

The commission also agreed with Monterey County that the Odellos should be permitted a farmer's market and restaurant. For Mrs. Bruna Odello, the action last week in San Francisco was a triumph after years of controversy about the family's development plans.

"We didn't get what we were asking for," Mrs. Odello said. "I don't know that what we got is a viable product."

The Odellos originally had sought approval for more than 200 units, a farmer's market and restaurant on the property. The Coastal Commission staff recommended against any development because the land is classified as prime agricultural.

Monterey County supervisors then agreed to recommend development of up to three units per acre on the 54 acres outside the floodway, on the condition the Odellos agree to allow use of a nine-acre non-productive "blister" area for flood control.

Mrs. Odello said she was also pleased that the Coastal Commission decided to overrule the staff recommendation and to follow the recommendation of the board of supervisors.

"I have never seen the Coastal Commission reject staff policy before," she said. "It was fantastic to see they could think for themselves. It was a good feeling. Now we need to see whether the recommendation is practicable in the face of today's economics."

"We've been kicked in the head for so long, to see there is some justice is good. We'll have to make a feasibility study to see what this means. For 16 years, we've struggled and gritted out teeth; this doesn't mean we'll be off to the races tomorrow."

"We're not going to do anything right away," she said.

The modifications in the Local Coastal Program would mean a maximum of some 800 new residences be constructed in the unincorporated area of Carmel, and as many as 400 new hotel units.

The Coastal Commission supported development of 240 hotel units on the Point Lobos Ranch, including the Hudson and Riley properties south of Carmel.

The LCP conditions approved by the Coastal Commission now return to the board of supervisors for review and concurrence. If areas of disagreement remain, the issues will be decided at a future Coastal Commission hearing.

Fifth District Monterey County Supervisor William Peters said the county position on a number of the elements in the LCP does not agree with the conditions approved by the Coastal Commission.

Home Federal acquires Village Green

Home Federal Savings and Loan Association has acquired the financially-ailing Village Green townhouse project in Carmel Valley.

The bank plans to construct a completely furnished model home with a landscaped lawn and a spa, and to schedule a grand opening in late May.

Developers of the $5 million, 22-unit complex at Carmel Valley Road and Ford Road filed for reorganization under Chapter XI of the bankruptcy code last August.

Home Federal, with $3.4 million invested in the project, was the major financing institution for the condominiums. The balance of the financing came from private individuals.

High home mortgage rates and the general economic slump were blamed for the bankruptcy filing.

Walker and Lee, Inc. will assume responsibility for sales and marketing of the units. Prices of the two and three-bedroom units range from $167,000 to $210,000. On-site sales manager will be Vicki Kanalos, with office hours between 11 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. daily except Thursdays.

Tom Trainer, manager of the Home Federal Carmel Valley branch, also will handle sales inquiries at 624-5988.

Hatton Canyon Freeway acquisition fund formed

By ROBERT MISKIMON

MICHAEL KELLY is an ornithologist who thinks Hatton Canyon is too important an environmental resource to be developed into a freeway.

Kelley is also a general contractor and businessman in Carmel who is appalled at the latest surge to "save" the 20-year-old Hatton Canyon Freeway project.

The 28-year-old man wants to start a local acquisition fund to purchase the freeway right-of-way from the California Department of Transportation for preservation as open space.

The California Transportation Commission has adopted a notice of intent to consider rescission of the freeway project and sale of the 130-acre right-of-way.

Cal-Trans officials have said the state probably couldn't fund the $17 million project for at least 15 or 20 years. Sale of right-of-way could generate at least $5 million, officials have estimated.

Widening Highway 1 to six lanes between Rio Road and Carpenter Street would cost only $3.7 million and would also relieve traffic congestion, state officials have stated.

The state transportation commission has solicited public comment on the proposal to drop the freeway project by June 1, and is tentatively scheduled to hold a public hearing on the matter in September or October in Monterey.

Since the state announced the possible demise of the long-controversial project, various public agencies have gone on record in opposition to sale of the right-of-way, including the Carmel City Council and the Monterey County Transportation Commission.

The Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club recently reaffirmed a 1972 position in support of freeway construction, and opposed to widening of Highway 1. The group urged the state not to abandon the freeway right-of-way.

But Michael Kelly believes the southern portion of the right-of-way, near the entrance to Carmel Valley, could be sold for as much as $5 million, which the state could use to widen Highway 1 to four lanes — not six lanes — between Morse Drive and Carmel Valley Road.

He also would like to start an acquisition fund to purchase the bulk of the freeway right-of-way for an open space park "to be dedicated to our children as a wildlife preserve and symbol of our need to maintain our precious natural beauty."

"I propose a Hatton Canyon Park Acquisition Fund to rescind the freeway, stop the destruction of Carmel Valley, and purchase Hatton Canyon as a park for generations to come," Kelly said. "As a local businessman and building contractor I am more than willing to sacrifice profit to have my children witness Bald Eagles migrating through Hatton Canyon."

KELLEY HAS lived in Carmel for seven years. He has a bachelor's degree in biology from Cal Poly and a master's degree in ornithology from U.C. Davis.

"The Hatton Canyon is an incredible watershed area," he said. "I've seen bald eagles there. It's an important habitat that shouldn't be developed into a freeway.

"If they build this so they don't have to wait in traffic jams, they'll just find they will be sitting in line on a $17 million freeway. (Supervisor) Bill Peters is for it because he wants another Carmel Valley Ranch."

"If you put that freeway in, Carmel Valley is finished. I couldn't believe it when I heard everyone saying they wanted the freeway. Most of the board of directors of the Sierra Club are against rescinding the Hatton Canyon Freeway because their back yards are up against Highway 1."

Kelly said he considers it "absurd" that a freeway could be built through Hatton Canyon to relieve traffic congestion between Carmel and the mouth of Carmel Valley.

"If they build this so they don't have to wait in traffic jams, they'll just find they will be sitting in line on a $17 million freeway. (Supervisor) Bill Peters is for it because he wants another Carmel Valley Ranch."

"I'm a developer and I'm against it. We have to have a compromise between business and the environment. The local people don't make money when there's development. It's all made in places like Los Angeles and San Francisco."

Kelly has called an organizational meeting of the Hatton Canyon Committee for 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., May 20 at the Carmel Middle School Library. The address of the fund is P.O. Box 222451, Carmel, Calif. 93922.

ORNITHOLOGIST Michael Kelly of Carmel would like to see the Hatton Canyon Freeway right-of-way purchased for dedication as open space.

Business Beat

The Crossroads after one year

By FLORENCE MASON

IT HAS BEEN one year since groundbreaking for The Crossroads. Is the new shopping center a success? I spent an afternoon there one sunny day last week and came away with the impression: "So far, so good. Very good."

There is agreement among the developers and the store owners on a number of points:

- Eventually, it will be a great success. "People put a lot of money into starting up, so it won't be money-making for a while." "For a while just to break even is success." "It is going to be one of the finest, if not the finest shopping center in Northern California, if not the whole state."

- Quality is a key word, both for the developers and for the store owners.

- To date, the large majority of both "lookers" and buyers are local people. One shop owner estimated about 80 percent are from Carmel, Carmel Valley or Pebble Beach.

- A large influx of tourists is still to come, as word gets out.

- The Crossroads' management is "easy to work with," say the store owners, and management is equally appreciative of them.

- The chimes and music from the clock tower are enjoyed... and complained about. The volume was turned down because of a complaint; soon, someone else complained because she could no longer hear them. Weather, air currents or some other natural cause seems to be involved. A man living near Hatton Road and Ocean Avenue was one of the complainants!

- The traffic lights are a nuisance; there are too many of them and they are poorly coordinated.

I turned to one of the owners, Bud Clark, for an evaluation. He sounded even more enthusiastic than he had when I first talked to him last year, while we walked around the then-skeleton of The Crossroads.

"It's even better than I expected," he said, "especially when you consider the economic conditions. Much, much better."

Was there anything he would do differently if he were doing it over? He thought for a while, then said, "Nothing." On reflection, he came up with a few minor points:

"I'd try to get across to the local people that we pay for the traffic lights (two new sets) but it's the county that runs them." Manager Jan Michelsen added: "We're working on that. We were required to put in both signals. It's obvious that the detectors are not working properly, which means that the sensors in the computers that regulate them will have to change. The county department of public works is cooperative; they agree that there is a problem and we all hope it will soon be solved."

The signal for the left turn lane into The Crossroads going west on Rio Road is very brief; the wait for the signal to change when you leave the area, heading west, is so long that many times drivers will give up and move against the signal.

The other thing Bud Clark thought he might change would be a few minor exterior decorative touches put in by The Crossroads. And he's not happy with every decorative scheme developed by individual store owners.

"But it can't be all one person's taste. I can't impose my taste on the store owners." He quoted a friend who owns stores in Santa Barbara and La Jolla as saying, "A small business is no more than an expression of the owner's personality."

THE CLOCK tower at The Crossroads. Its chimes and tunes prove that you can't please everyone ... but The Crossroads tries.

A few statistics one year after groundbreaking:

THERE ARE 45 stores or restaurants available in Phase I and there will be another 45 in Phase II, which is just getting under way. Stores open as of April 22: The Plantation Peddler, Carmel Mercantile (two stores), Scandia Down, MichaelLee Gallery, Brittany's, The Beauty Shop, The Baobab Collection, Monterey Baking Company, Bay Video, The Vitamin Center, Billy Quon's, The Collection (two stores), Arctic Bay Company.

Scheduled to open soon were: The Bagel Bakery, The Mandarin Restaurant, Balas Studio, Bud's Ice Cream, Le Bain (a new shop for the owners of a similar one in Ventana), the Holiday Hutch and an unnamed children's clothing store. There are other leases signed, leaving 14 stores still available in Phase I. Three leases have already been signed for Phase II.

and several more are "out for signing" there.

As for the "mix" of stores and restaurants, that could be improved, Bud Clark admits. "We're weak on apparel," he said, "but that will change. We'd like a book store — not just 'a book store' but a good one. And more restaurants."

When completed, the 90 buildings in the new shopping area and the 15 in what used to be called Carmel Center (It's all "The Crossroads" now — Long's, Safeway, the indoor mall, Sambo's, the cinema and Wells Fargo Bank too) will cover more than 200,000 sq. ft. on 18.64 acres. There will be parking for approximately 1,000 automobiles.

Clark said one of the things customers talk about is the pleasure of being able to park close to the shops and enter them at ground level with no stairs to climb. Also remarked upon is the sense of spaciousness. And the landscaping. And — there's that word again — the quality of the merchandise.

"I think the turnover will be minimal," Clark said. "Leasing 90 new stores, we may make some mistakes. But we are sticking with quality."

Listen to some of the store owners, assessing the success of their businesses so far.

Dirk Daniel, co-owner with Rod Lindsay of The Baobab Collection, the first shop to open at The Crossroads, said: "We didn't expect too much at first; we have been very pleased. People seem delighted with the quality of our merchandise and our reasonable prices. Our handmade wool rugs, for example, are comparable in price to machine-made rugs of the same size. We had as many as 300 people in the store on a Sunday when we were first here. There are fewer now, as other shops have opened and customers spread out more. Even so, we average somewhere between 60 and 70 or 80 people a day. They may not buy anything on their first visit but many of them return, bringing husband or wife or friend. We encourage potential customers to take our rugs or wall hangings out on approval, because that's the only way to be sure something is right for your home. Nine out of 10 who do take things out on approval, buy them."

DANIEL SEES service as something special that can be offered at The Crossroads.

"We can give specialized service here in a way we couldn't in a big city such as San Francisco. That's why we're here." He closed on an optimistic note: "I think we'll peak by the end of next year, with the completion of Phase II. I have great expectations for all of us for the future. It's slow and personal, we have to get to know our customers. Word-of-mouth is the best advertising and you can't buy that. You only get it by giving good service."

Helen Ratto, the petite owner, with her husband, of The Plantation Peddler, which has just opened: "We're just getting started. We see mostly local people and many of them are 'just looking.' People who know the Habersham line of furniture are delighted to find them here, closer than San Francisco."

Mrs. Ratto is different from most of the owners at The Crossroads in that this is her first experience as an entrepreneur. Yet she is both realistic and quietly optimistic. She is content to have the "lookers" now and in fact, there were quite a few there the day we visited.

Jim Poile at The Collection was still in the process of deciding which items would show to best advantage in which of the Poile family's two shops in The Crossroads. One features larger pieces of furniture and the other has a great variety of decorative accessories and gifts. I was attracted to some hand-thrown flower pots displayed outside the smaller store and inside, to "fan masks" and unusual pieces from Poland.

The Collection's goal is to offer hand-picked pieces that are not usually seen in this area. As one of the shops that was not among the first to open but is not the most recent, either, it illustrates a different phase in the process of settling in. In this case, a whole family is involved.

"It's just a matter of time," Poile said. The Poiles expect to be among the majority of shops at The Crossroads described by Bud Clark as being "over what they projected" in sales.

Randy Inman, partner with Gary Huffine at The Vitamin Center, evaluates their success so far in terms of previous experience. "We know the trends. The pulse of this center — the things we are developing — are what lead to success." He too spoke of a growing following of repeat customers (local people) and of the value of word-of-mouth advertising.

BUD CLARK finds it possible to leave The Crossroads scene for his annual trip to England, where for several years he has exchanged his Pebble Beach home with London digs for one month. His staff at the project will be busy.

Debbie Bradburn, marketing director, is looking for small jazz groups or bands to play "comfortable listening music" at The Crossroads bandstand for weekends during the summer. Also planned is a foot race, probably at the end of July, to benefit some local community project or worthy charity. And she believes it is not too soon to think about Christmas: "It will be a high time for The Crossroads." Another of her projects is trying to get the Monterey Transit buses to come to The Crossroads; she is working on that.

Ms. Bradburn wanted me to be sure to say that she and the others in the organization are not only open to suggestions and criticism from the public; they seek it. "It's important that we get it directly, not second- or third-hand," she said.

Bud Clark still maintains a somewhat low-key and practical approach to his dream-becoming-reality. But the pride was evident when he commented that The Crossroads has become nationally known within the industry. Debbie Bradburn put it this way: "When we were first here, we got a lot of comments like 'Who needs another shopping center?' Now we don't have to solicit compliments; we get them from so many people. What we hear most often is: 'It's lovely — such quality.'"

There's that word again. So far, after a year, it appears that the word is still cherished by everyone involved in The Crossroads and is still relevant.

NAMES AND NOTES

"The House That Jack Built" becomes "La Ren — Fine Jewelry." That's the name selected by Agop Agacanian, new owner of the store at Dolores and Sixth. "It sounds good, and it's easy to remember," Agacanian said. It also is similar to the name of his other shop, Renaissance Jewelry, on Dolores.

On a recent trip to Southern California, I saw something new — to me, at least — in the way of banking services. North County Bank in Escondido has six lanes for automobiles, equipped with pneumatic tubes in which bank customers can send withdrawal requests or deposit slips and receive money or receipts. There are loudspeakers, too, so if any discussion is needed, it is immediately possible. On a Saturday morning, all the lanes were filled. I estimated that there were at least 18 cars coming and going during the 10 minute period I was there.

But that's not all. There were three tellers inside a booth and a young attendant who could supply the bank's forms to any customers who needed them. That same attendant moved about from car to car, washing windshields while customers waited!

If you see homing pigeons flying about the Church of the Wayfarer's bell tower, they may have been released there for a Japanese television advertisement.

The Business License and Code Review Board approved a license for Unix Enterprises to shoot a commercial for Tosche Advertising Agency — Japan, with only one concern — a letter to the board that stated: "We plan to catch all birds we will be using for the commercial."

Several members of the board reacted visibly; Sandy Swain was the first to recover and ask for an explanation. What was meant was that the company would re-catch the pigeons they released.

District Attorney Curtis emphasizes his record as election day approaches

By ROBERT MISKIMON

DISTRICT ATTORNEY William Curtis is armed with a sheaf of facts and figures to prove he is qualified for re-election June 8 to another four-year term as the chief law enforcement officer of Monterey County.

Major crimes have increased 61 percent since he took office in 1971, Curtis said. Felonies have increased by 48 percent, misdemeanors by 148 percent.

But the prosecutorial staff of the DA's office has increased only 37 percent in the last decade, while the office has been successful in generating offsetting revenues, Curtis told the Pine Cone/Outlook.

Curtis has all this information at his fingertips, and is pleased to deliver it in staccato fashion partly because he faces his first election challenge June 8.

Carmel attorney Don Freeman, the challenger, has said Curtis operates an inefficient office which has not been politically impartial. Freeman thinks he can do a better job.

Ironically, Curtis campaigned on a theme of efficiency when he defeated then Dist. Atty. Burt Young in 1970.

"I was elected because law enforcement and the general public was unhappy with the effectiveness of the office," Curtis said. Since his election, the district attorney's office has taken on more responsibility and become more efficient, Curtis said.

"When I became DA we generated almost no offsetting revenue," Curtis said. "Our revenues to the county have risen to $1,911,000 this year, which reduces our net cost to the county to around $1.5 million."

The district attorney's office was budgeted $3.6 million out of the total $119.5 million Monterey County budget for 1981-82. In addition to the revenues generated for the county, the DA's office expects to collect $4.5 million this year from non-custodial parents under its family support division, Curtis said.

Eighty-three percent of the DA's budget goes for employee salaries and fringe benefits, which are set by the board of supervisors, Curtis noted. Since he took office, the cost of living has increased 130 percent, the county general fund budget has risen 201 percent, but the "net county cost" of the DA's office has increased by 71 percent, Curtis said.

And here's one of the statistics of which he seems most proud: the conviction rate for cases brought to Monterey County Superior Court by the DA's office since Curtis was elected a decade ago is 88.7 percent.

CURTIS HAS LINED UP the endorsements of most law enforcement agencies in the county, including police associations in Seaside, Del Rey Oaks, Carmel, Monterey, and Pacific Grove, plus the county deputy sheriffs' association and county peace officers' association.

The three responsibilities of the district attorney are administration of justice (prosecution of offenders), collection of child support from non-custodial parents, and detection of crime and the arrest of criminals, Curtis said.

The bulk of staff time is spent on the first two categories of cases, with about 10,000 family support cases handled by the DA's office each year. Prosecutorial staff in the DA's office has increased 23 percent since 1975, but if the four welfare fraud investigators are not included, the increase is only 15 percent, Curtis said.

"Monterey County has been in the top 10 counties in California in effectiveness, in terms of how much it costs the taxpayer to collect $1," Curtis said. "Statewide it costs 40 cents for a district attorney's office to collect $1."

"In Monterey County, it costs 21 cents to collect $1; in Fresno County it costs 37 cents; in Los Angeles County it costs 57 cents. About 8,000 of the 10,000 family support cases we handle every year are welfare cases — collecting from people whose kids are on welfare."

There are 102 employees in the Monterey County District Attorney's office. There are two assistant district attorneys, plus 27 staff attorneys, Curtis said. The Salinas office has 60 employees; the Monterey office has 40; the King City office two employees.

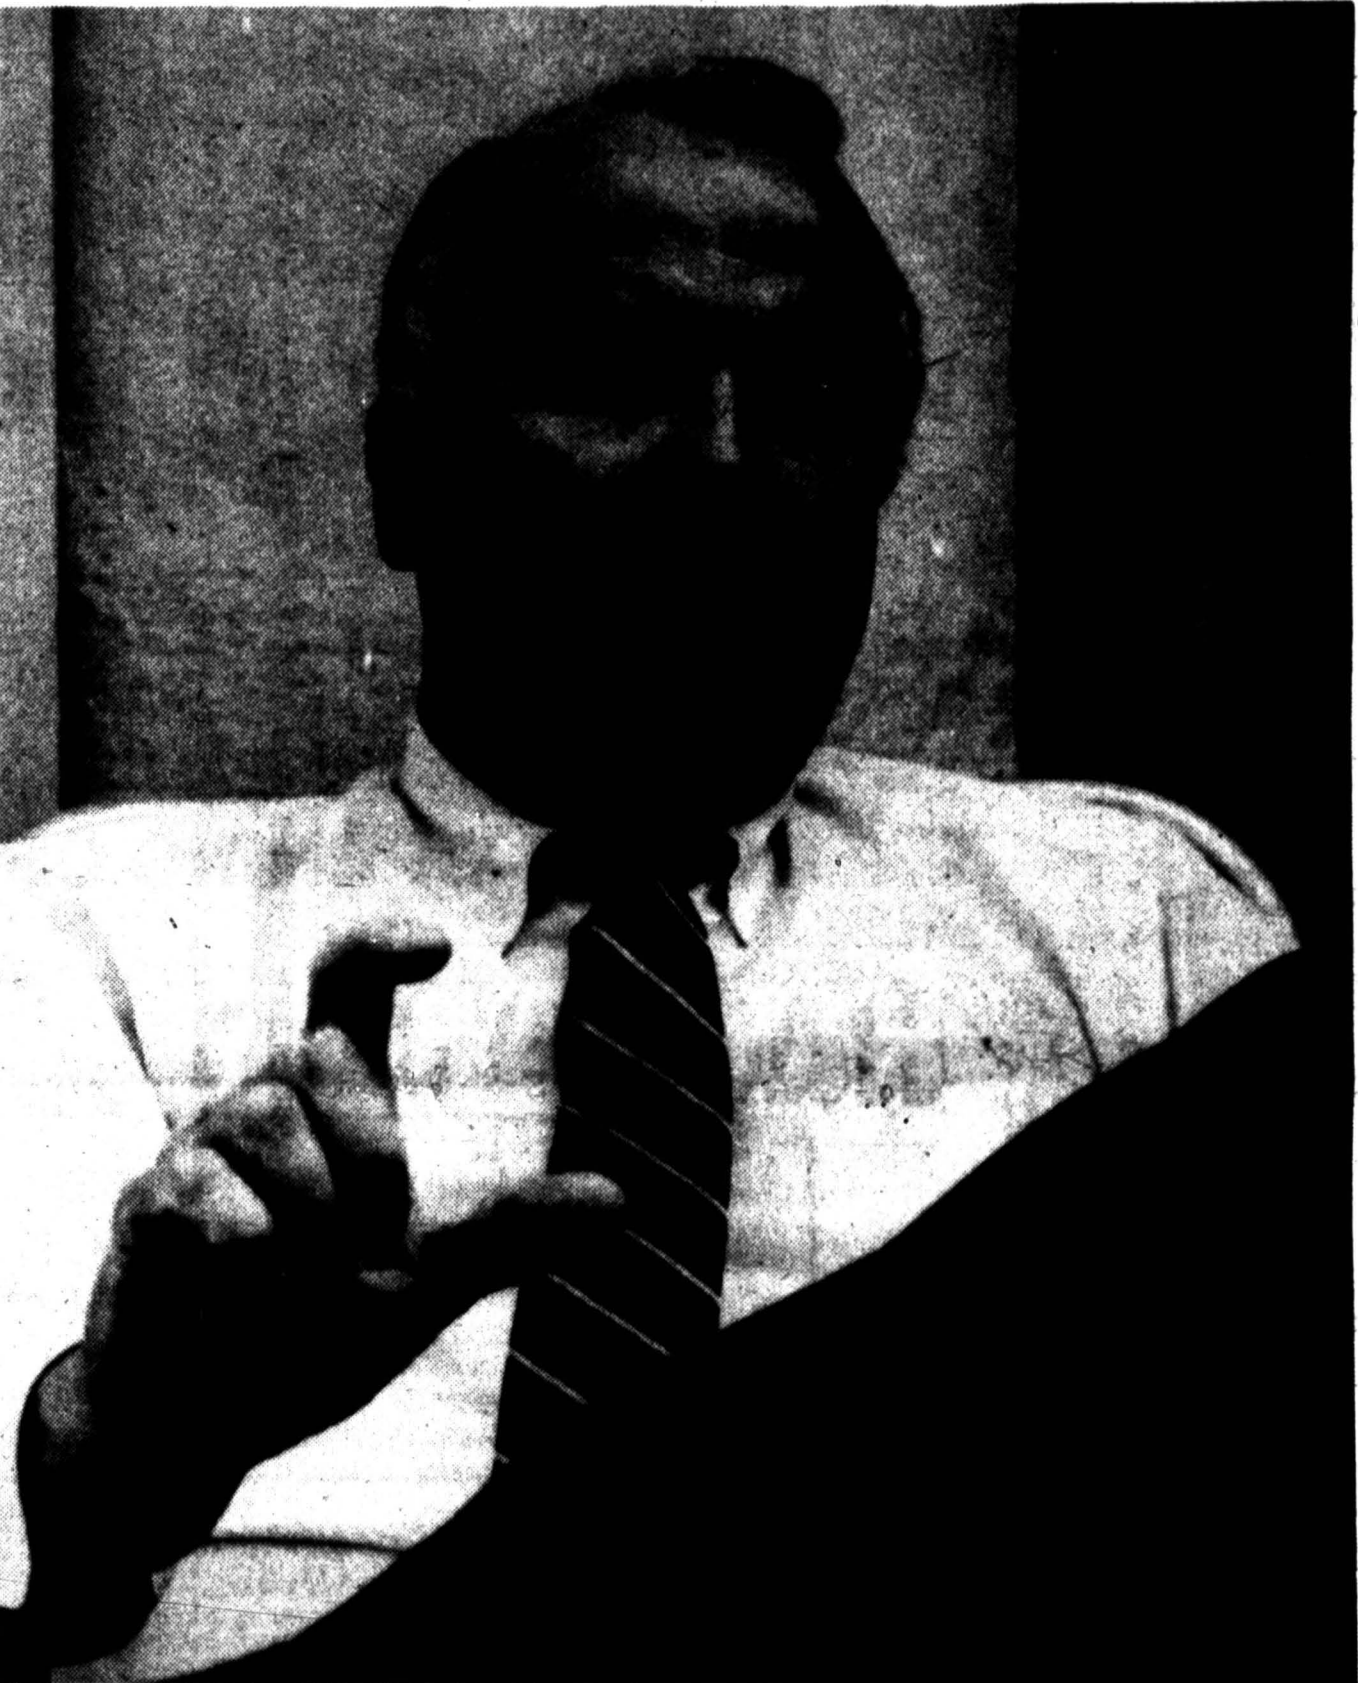

"If we were staffed as the DA's offices are staffed in the six counties we're usually compared with, we'd need 40 lawyers — as opposed to an increased level of responsibility assigned to the department, Curtis indicated.

"Since the passage of Prop. 13, I have made overtures to the court to be relieved of the infraction function," he said. "But Judge Eldred insisted that we continue to appear. Eighteen months ago I said I didn't have the personnel to do that any more."

"So as a result we don't staff traffic court any more except in situations where there is an attorney representing the defendant, or a specific request from the police. Normally we don't have any knowledge of an infraction case."

Curtis mentioned infractions because of a posed to our 27 — to perform all the functions we do in Monterey County," Curtis said.

Challenger Don Freeman has charged that the DA's office has not paid enough attention to white collar crimes, such as embezzlement, but Curtis said his office has four such cases now under investigation.

"Some of the fastest-growing crimes in our society are in that area," Curtis said. "Embezzlement is occurring more frequently in our society. But embezzlements are very difficult to put together because they rely on records which are usually kept by the embezzlers."

"Most people aren't dumb enough to leave records behind. In one case we're working on now, the accused person has destroyed all the records. This particular case will probably end up in civil litigation anyway."

IN ADDITION to his "extensive criminal trial background" when elected district attorney, Curtis also brought experience in the administration of a law office — both of which have stood him in good stead as district attorney, he indicated.

"Law offices were coming out of the dark ages in the 1960s," Curtis said. "I brought a knowledge of their workings to the office when I was elected. The district attorney's office is a very large law office, a very large collection agency, and a small police force."

The increase in the size of the district attorney's budget in recent years is due largely to an increased level of responsibility assigned to the department, Curtis indicated.

The DA's office pressed the case to trial and lost, Freeman noted. But Curtis said his office was involved with that traffic infraction only because of a related drug charge.

And Curtis offered an explanation of another case mentioned by Freeman, which involved two restaurant patrons who refused to pay for their entrees after having eaten their salads and drunk some wine.

Again, the DA's office pressed charges. A three-day jury trial resulted in an acquittal.

"The facts as he (Freeman) presented them were not the facts at bar," Curtis said. "It appeared there had been a deliberate attempt to set up the restaurant. The people involved were being investigated for other fraudulent behavior. It was not simply a case where there was a dispute with the restaurant owner."

BUT WHAT ABOUT charges that the district attorney's office has not been managed in a politically impartial manner — one of the themes in Freeman's campaign?

"If you define something as too political any time you charge a public official with a crime, then the office is political," Curtis said. "I view the job of district attorney as enforcing the laws evenly. Part of that means that people who hold public office are accountable."

"I've probably investigated more police officers, and cleared more police officers, and charged more police officers than any other district attorney in the history of Monterey County. If the DA isn't willing to actively enforce the law when it comes to public officials, then he shouldn't be DA."

"I've probably investigated more police officers, and cleared more police officers, and charged more police officers than any other district attorney in the history of Monterey County. If the DA isn't willing to actively enforce the law when it comes to public officials, then he shouldn't be DA."

One area of increased responsibility for the district attorney's office is that of juvenile law, Curtis said. Since the law no longer recognizes juvenile "status offenders" and treats juveniles more like adults, two attorneys have been assigned in the DA's staff just to handle juvenile cases, he said.

That additional responsibility added a total of $190,588 to the department's 1981-82 budget, Curtis said.

"In 1977 we added two witness coordinating people before we got the court to agree to change the form of the subpoena," Curtis said. "In 1977 we decided to mail the subpoena telling the witness to call us and be on telephone standby. That saved law enforcement agencies a lot of time."

"That system was eliminated by Prop. 13, but was then reinstated immediately by the supervisors because everybody agreed it was so helpful."

In 1978, responsibility for witnesses' fees was transferred from the courts to the DA's office and the public defender's office, which added another $130,000 to the DA's budget, Curtis said. In the 1982-83 budget, that amount will be cut by $65,000 by the elimination of per diem fees and payment of only mileage reimbursements to witness, he added.

In 1979, the DA's office was given the responsibility to pay for blood, breath, and urine tests in drunk driving cases, which added $151,000 to the department budget.

A $177,000 computerized case tracking system operational in the 1981-82 budget will become operational in July and "will save us in the hundreds of thousands of dollars by 1985," Curtis said.

"It will provide the courts, the public defender, and the DA with a method to efficiently track cases through the process. We will just enter the information once and everyone will have access to the information, to give us a better handle on all our cases."

THE DISTRICT attorney's office will assume responsibility in 1982-83 for crimes committed by inmates of Soledad State Prison.

"We got a law passed to give the responsibility to the attorney general's office several years ago when it appeared that county taxpayers were subsidizing a state responsibility," Curtis said. "But now we will be compensated for everything we do, so the cost won't go to the county."

Curtis is president of the California District Attorneys Association and chairman of the regional California Council on Criminal Justice. He is a member of the California Youth Authority Advisory Committee on the County Justice System Subvention Program, Monterey County Affirmative Action Committee, the Monterey County Law Enforcement Administrators Association, and the Monterey County Justice Systems Task Force.

He is a lifelong resident of Monterey, and was a member of the Monterey City Council from 1965-70. He was named Outstanding Man of the Year for the Monterey Peninsula in 1960.

"I view the job of district attorney as enforcing the laws evenly. Part of that means that people who hold public office are accountable."

Carmel Youth Baseball

BY WENDY BANKS

THIS SATURDAY another division of Carmel Youth Baseball gets underway when the Pony League, ages 13-14, begins their season with a Jamboree at Middle School beginning at 10 a.m. Participating teams include the Padres, Mets, A's, Lions and Tigers.

Bronco games played during the week saw John Roscelli out hit Pine Inn; final score 12-1. Jeff Roberts was the winning pitcher. He hit a double and collected three hits. Beau Brushert went three for three with one double and Ali Monroe added three hits, including a double for the winners. Brian Young had a double for Pine Inn.

A rally in the bottom of the sixth inning with two outs saw Pine Inn take a close one from Nielsen Market 12-11. Brian Young started it and Jason Lande, David Faber, Adam Green, and Christopher Parrish all had consecutive hits to keep it going. Centerfield Adam Green had a couple of big catches and Brian Young made a running grab on a foul line drive to end the game. Adding to Neilson's total were Josh Banks, who went four for four with one double and Bobby Carroll, who was three for five.

Rein Wildschut had the distinction of hitting the first home run of the year when he parked one over the Bronco center field fence to help La Playa beat Derek Rayne, 17-6. Nine out of 10 players on the winning team scored as the bats were flying. An 8-8 tie after eight innings was left on the scoreboard when John Roscelli and Derek Rayne met. Thanks to the two relief pitchers, Cory Keith (JR) and Brandon Kirsch (DR), the game remained a tie. Gerson Perry (JR) tripled to right field and Christian Braudrick and Eric Mahlum both had doubles for (DR).

Neilsen Market posted a big win over league-leading La Playa, 15-12. Robert D'Attilio scored four runs and Josh Banks, three for the winners. Mike Little collected three for La Playa. Erik Sincoff (LP) had a big day in center field; Bobby Carroll pitched in the win.

Major league girls' softball action saw Village Inn take a close win over Uyeda Brothers, 14-12. Again Stacey White went the distance with help from teammate Lori Palma who made a double play in the seventh inning when she caught a fly ball at third base and threw to first to get the runner who didn't tag up. Brandi Faia went four for four, Palma, three for four, including a double and two runs, and Karla Palumbo, three for four with two runs. Tammi Fuller posted three RBIs and Carol Sepersky added two more. Triples were hits by Palumbo, T. Fuller, and Kim DeWit. The Village Inn defense held on in the last inning under the Jacks Park lights despite some intense hitting by Uyeda Brothers.

Monterey Peninsula Dental Group took a high scoring game from St. Angela's of Pacific Grove, 19-17. Elizabeth Barelli pitched the win with lots of help from Christine Reding, who went three for three, including a double, and Angela Accuna two for three, a double, and a fine defensive running catch. Monterey Peninsula Dental Group lost a close one 8-9 to Anderson Electric. Kari Winton had an unassisted double play when she caught a fly ball at first base and tagged the runner out. Angela Accuna was hitting well for MPDG.

Minor league girls' softball saw Straw Hat blank Fort Ord 18-0; Megan Hanson pitched the win with good defensive playing from her teammates. Offensively, leading hitters included: Tina Mouton, Hallie Levy, Carolyn Borges, and Megan Hanson. Herma Smith Curtis took a 7-5 game from Straw Hat under Suzanne Suwada's pitching. Danielle Hayman had a double while Jamie Parrish and Sandra Harris all hit well for HSC; Jennifer Loomis helped Straw Hat.

Carmel Plaza took a big game from an undefeated Joe Tate Construction team 10-8; Monica Reardon managed to hold them off from the mound with some great stops by Becky Eskind at third base. Lesa D'Ambrosio and Lisa Serrano were hitting well for Carmel Plaza. Sandy Morris was injured while making a courageous attempt to catch a hard hit ball in left field; she still made the play to second base. Monica Reardon and Richelle Rudinski connected for doubles.

A 16-13 score saw Herma Smith Curtis beat Monterey Peninsula TV. Jamie Parrish had a big day with a double play and some important hits. Mia Maxinoski caught a deep fly ball in left field while offensively Suzanne Suwada, Jamie Parrish, Danielle Hayman, and Gina Palumbo all were effective. Herma Smith Curtis took a 7-5 game from Straw Hat. Suzanne Suwada made a catch at short stop and threw to second base for a double play as well as pitching the win. Nancy Penn and Danielle Hagman hit a double with other leading hitters being: Jamie Parrish, Sandra Harris (HSC) and Jennifer Loomis (SH).

MUSTANG LEAGUE action saw Rudy-Harris top the County Mounties 7-4; George Zarate pitched the win. Will Griffith had a triple even after being in bed for six days. Leading hitters for Rudy-Harris were: Bryan Langley two for three, Chris Cowles two for three and Ivo Staino two for three. For the Mounties Benno Weiner went three for three and Matt Dickerhoof had two RBIs. Bryan Langley had a spectacular catch in center field; Ricky Prieto was out of action due to surgery.

Robbie Takigawa helped Motorsports Ltd. of Monterey capture a 10-5 win over Carmel Insurance; adding triples were: Michael Parrish (MH) and Steven White (CI). In the fifth inning, right fielder Devin Meheen (CI) caught Kevin Winton's fly ball and threw it to shortstop Steven White who relayed it to third baseman Ryan Meyer for the double play. Hitting well for Motorsports were: Jerry Ledzenski, Kevin Winton, Carlos Moore, Michael Parrish, and Miguelin Domínguez. Carmel Insurance was helped by Colin Braudrick and Steven White.

Rudy-Harris finished a 5-3 win over Motorsports after an earlier game had been called for darkness. Will Griffith was the winning pitcher with help from reliever Scott Allen, who came in during the sixth inning with the bases loaded and one out. He allowed one hit, forced an out, and struck out the last batter, Robbie Takigawa and Jenny Dyer both had two hits for Motorsports; Daniel Luster, Bryan Langley and Chris Cowles all were effective for Rudy-Harris. Motorsports then came back and handed Rudy-Harris a 12-5 defeat. Doubles were hit off the bats of Andrew Hinds, Miguelin Domínguez for the winners and Bryan Langley, Jimmy Witherall, and two from Daniel Luster for Rudy-Harris.

In a real pitching duel, Orange Julius outlasted Carmel Insurance, 3-2. Russell Peavy (OJ) and Matt Little (CI) were the pitchers and the leading hitters for both teams. Orange Julius squeezed a win from Dick Bruhn, 7-5 under Russell Peavy's pitching again. Danny Kleinhardt had a triple with teammate Jacob Goldman getting a double for Dick Bruhn. Scott Gill, Adam Vesper, and Gabriel Montgomery-Downs all had doubles for Orange Julius.

Carmel Insurance's Matt Little had a big day when they beat Rudy-Harris 8-1. Matt pitched the win, hit a triple, and two singles, and collected two RBIs. Braulio DeAnda (CI) struck out three batters in a row and posted a couple of singles with help from Steven White and Colin Braudrick for Carmel Insurance. Jimmy Witherall and Chris Cowles hit well for Rudy-Harris. Jason Vogelpohl (CI) hit a beautiful fly to right field but was put out as Ivo Staiano threw to Daniel Luster.

The exact same play was accomplished by Carmel Insurance when Justin Sturgeon (RH) was put out by Chip Zug and Ryan Meyer.

The County Mounties and Motorsports came up with a 6-6 tie. Chris Prieto pitched two innings without allowing a run. Scoring runs for the Mounties were: Chris Prieto, Benno Weiner, Matt Dickerhoof, Steven Irish, Darren Maggiore, and Ben Maxinoski. Motorsports runs were: Rich Macon, Mark Underdown, Jerry Ledzenski (2), Kevin Winton, and Phillip Fuerstner.

This week's featured Pinto team is Mediterranean Market coached by Ed and Karen Irish. Team members include: Christopher Bolton, Matthew Bryson, Chad Christensen, Brian Frymire, Sandy Griffith, Grant Heinrich, Kelly Irish, Chris Johnson, Beth Luttrell, Jonathan Nunemaker, Savannah Spirit, Michael Zury, and Corey Thompson.

Kay Goines: The resident artist-teacher at River School

"IN THIS classroom, we educate for the will and intelligence through imagination. I believe that children learn through the expression of arts."

"TO ME, the miracle is not that they have learned to read, but the miracle is that they want to continue to read. That is the artistry of teaching."

"WHEN YOU are in the classroom, you must be caring and curious. You must be curious enough to ask and you must be caring in your heart and in your mind."

THE QUALITY FEELING OF OLD CARMEL COMES TOGETHER IN A VILLAGE of bowfronts and lamplight

... and you'll think you're back in Old Carmel...

The Crossroads in Carmel is a brand new experience. Dozens of unusual new shops, thousands of things to see and buy, and a new restaurant open for lunch, cocktails and dinner. And you'll think you're in Old Carmel with bowfront windows and lamplights, and wonder of wonders, plenty of parking.

The Crossroads, a village in itself, for you to see and enjoy.

Carmel, California
Highway One at Rio Road

In her kindergarten classroom, she practices a special form of art

Story and photographs
By MICHAEL R. GARDNER

KAY GOINES is an artist. The classroom is her studio, language is her brush and children her canvas.

8:30 a.m. — Mrs. Goines enthusiastically weaves and dances through the groups of children as they trudge sleepily into kindergarten room two at Carmel River School.

"Give me your hand. Look at my face. Good morning, I'm so glad you came," she tells each student.

The gold-colored smiling sun medallion bounces around her neck, symbolic of the mood in the classroom — every day is sunny in the world of Mrs. Goines.

For 27 years, Mrs. Goines has introduced Carmel Kindergartners to education. Time has passed quickly, the faces have changed and fellow teachers have gone on their way.

But Mrs. Goines remains. And in her, there is a living and breathing testament to all that is good about public education.

Her room is an exhibit of children's artistic talent. There are wall hangings, weavings, clay sculptures and paintings tucked neatly along the four walls. A friendly stuffed green alligator is perched in the rafters, keeping an eye on the little ones below.

Three posters on the wall lend hints to her teaching philosophy:

"Do we help children become what they are capable of becoming?"

"Do we treat children as if they are what they ought to be?"

"Feelings are more important than anything under the sun. When we know this, we enter the human condition."

Each morning Mrs. Goines is met at her car by a group of children, eager to help her bring in some new-found treasure.

Some days it may just be twigs for a weaving, other times she may surprise them with a mysterious box filled with ...?

You never know with Mrs. Goines.

A non-stop bundle of energy, she has already been up for several hours by the time class starts in the morning. She has taken a long walk with her husband, Larry. And she has probably written a lecture for her University of California at Santa Cruz series on early childhood education.

A retired sociologist and world-traveler, Larry is the one Mrs. Goines goes to with ideas.

"He plays the devil's advocate. Because he's such an avid reader, he brings things to my attention. I can try out my ideas with him because he listens and he knows," she said. He has never heard me lecture because he believes that we both have our performances and that when it is time, you go alone."

Yet, while at her lecture or in the classroom, Mrs. Goines said she is never without his influence.

"There isn't anybody who knows my work that doesn't know we are a team," she said. "Mentor, that would be the best word. The one we try out ideas with."

The morning walk with her husband is what gets Mrs. Goines "up" for the day.

"Larry is my great emotional support for all I do. He is someone with whom I can exchange thoughts and offer ideas," she said. "In his ideas, I am stimulated. He gives me the extra impetus."

9 a.m. — It was a special day for Maya Hudson. It was her sixth birthday and mom, Monica, was there to help her celebrate.

"Today is your day Maya," said Mrs. Goines. "Look at me. What day is today?"

"My birthday," Maya replied.

And a celebration begins, but not without learning.

"Sometimes when we have the birthday, we receive gifts. But we should also give a gift. Will you give a gift and share it with others?" Mrs. Goines asked Maya. "Will you read us a poem as your gift?"

Here's what Maya read:
"Some things go barefoot the whole year through!

"But I don't go ... and neither do you!"

"But bees, and beetles, and spiders,

"Do!"

"To me the miracle is not that they have learned to read, but the miracle is they want to continue to read. That is the artistry of teaching."

MAYA DID NOT realize it, but through the celebration of her birthday she was helped in her reading, in her cultural awareness of poetry and her social growth by being taught to share something special with others.

"It isn't just a birthday party. It's a celebration of them becoming," said Mrs. Goines. "You celebrate when a child shows self regulation." Mrs. Goines frequently dots her sentences with words such as "celebration," "sensitivity," and "curiosity."

"When you are in the classroom, you must be caring and curious," she said. "You have to be curious enough to ask and you must be caring in your heart and in your mind. You have to care and be curious about how children feel and think."

"The worst thing that can happen to us in teaching is the loss of sensitivity," she said. "We have to be sensitive to them. We have to allow ourselves to express, to feel, to think."

"To me the miracle is not that they have learned to read, but the miracle is they want to continue to read. That is the artistry of teaching."

To practice her "artistry," Mrs. Goines employs the arts themselves: poetry, clay sculptures, weaving, painting and music.

"In this classroom, we educate for the will and intelligence through imagination," she said. "I believe that children learn through the expression of arts. I believe that the arts are the translators of life."

"You see a child's mind through his pictures, his clay. He is showing you another way of thinking other than speaking. It is a translator."

"I work as much with the child's emotional self as well as I do with their intellectual self," she said.

Games are not just merely for fun in her class. A simple "musical chairs" provided Harry Fulop and Robby Spediacci with a lesson in social behavior.

Harry and Robby were the last two left as Mrs. Goines played the piano. Around and around the two youngsters went until "stop," and Robby sat down.

"Okay Harry. You played well and you lost. Go give him a hug and shake his hand," said Mrs. Goines.

While Robby, somewhat embarrassingly received a hug and a handshake, Mrs. Goines explained the meaning of sportsmanship and how important it is to accept defeat.

"In international sports, they all shake the hands of the winner. We must shake their hands," said Mrs. Goines.

Mrs. Goines is keenly aware of the world and she tries to instill that awareness in her youngsters.

At Christmastime the students celebrate the holidays in the tradition of many different religions and cultures. Other times, books that tell stories about distant lands and people are read aloud. And then she will turn to the children and say:

"The world is made of towns like these,

"Filled with many families.

"Their faces are different,

"Their names are too,

"And they laugh and cry

"The same as you."

Nearly three decades have passed since Mrs. Goines taught in the school system in the San Joaquin Valley town of Hanford.

She has seen the tremendous growth of public education, its changes in direction, and today's return to the basics with teachers abandoning the jobs they used to love.

But through it all, she remains as enthusiastic and energetic as a kid straight out of college facing her first curious group of freshly-scrubbed faces.

"In a profession, you continue to study. When one studies their profession, they change. My philosophy is that study presumes transformation and you're not the same even after 27 years.

If you leave, you don't have a theater to enlarge on your ideas — the things in which you believe.

Mrs. Goines is optimistic about the future of public education, despite recent publicity about all of its problems and predictions of its decline.

"I think, because of the struggle, in public education, we will benefit because we have been forced to change. Parents have been forced to ask questions that will make for more effective education."

PARENTAL QUESTIONS these days often focus on the three R's and what steps public education is taking to return to teaching the basic skills.

But Mrs. Goines uses the arts as one way to deal with the "basics" in education.

Mrs. Goines feels that although her teaching methods employ the arts, the result is the same. Methods are "just the art of achieving it (education). The basic skills are indeed important. It's the way we achieve it. It's the artistic way we achieve it."

Teachers need more than energy and enthusiasm to sharpen children's minds and prepare them for their 12 years in the school system, Mrs. Goines said.

"They need materials. We must be very sure that there are materials for teachers to use. They should be teacher-chosen so that children can individually improve their skills and their ability to compose, their ability to compute," she said.

Mrs. Goines also feels that the teacher-pupil ratio could shape the future of education.

"It's very important to keep it (the ratio) as low as possible. When you look at the budget, you have to hire the extra teacher. Large class sizes are almost impossible in the early years. I fear that the early acquisition of skills is almost impossible in a high student-teacher ratio," Mrs. Goines said.

When Mrs. Goines is not teaching kindergartners, she instructs other educators about how to teach.

Mention Kay Goines in schools as far away as Boston, Maui, or Baltimore, and you will get an acknowledgement.

Vance Frasier, principal of Carmel River School, said Mrs. Goines' reputation is well-deserved.

"When I told people that I was coming to the Carmel district, they said: 'You're going to Kay Goines' district.' They did not say, you're going to this superintendent's or that principal's district. They said Kay Goines," Frasier said. "She's probably brought more credit to the district in terms of reputation than anyone else by far."

"I think, because of the struggle, in public education, we will benefit because we have been forced to change. Parents have been forced to ask questions that will make for more effective education."

Frasier said Mrs. Goines is also unusual in the fact that she not only knows early childhood development theory and lectures on it, but that she also employs it in the classroom.

"Very few teachers know the theory as well as Kay Goines. You can practice the theory or you can teach, but few can do both," he said.

Mrs. Goines' work has also garnered her awards and she has been the subject of articles in several prestigious education magazines such as Learning.

She was nominated for the Marcus Foster Memorial Reading Award and she co-authored the first Ginn book on English as a Second Language (ESL). Mrs. Goines was also featured in the California State Department of Education documentary "Oral language," which won the Grand Award at the National Film Festival in 1976.

around the world. There is a plethora of publicity leaflets about her campus appearances.

Closer to home, she is a paid lecturer at the University of California at Santa Cruz extension where she offers a variety of programs on teaching methods.

"Dear Parents — April showers do bring May flowers! And from the small hands carrying blooms to me each day I can be sure of it! Stop by and see the panels of paintings — see buds that burst. The children seem to be opening more and more, also! I see sudden bursts of growth in language and thought."

The note to parents that explained the week's activities was number 157 sent home with students in Mrs. Goines' class. It is more unusual for a child to arrive home without a note pinned to his shirt than with one.

To Mrs. Goines, parents are the third part in the educational formula. And mom and dad are almost always welcome in her classroom, perhaps with the exclusion of testing periods.

"There's a great deal of pleasure watching them with children," she said. "Watching the parents grow with the children."

"You are always playing that trilogy the students, the teacher and the parents."

2:50 p.m. — The children have left for home. papers need to be reviewed. Plans need to be made for tomorrow.

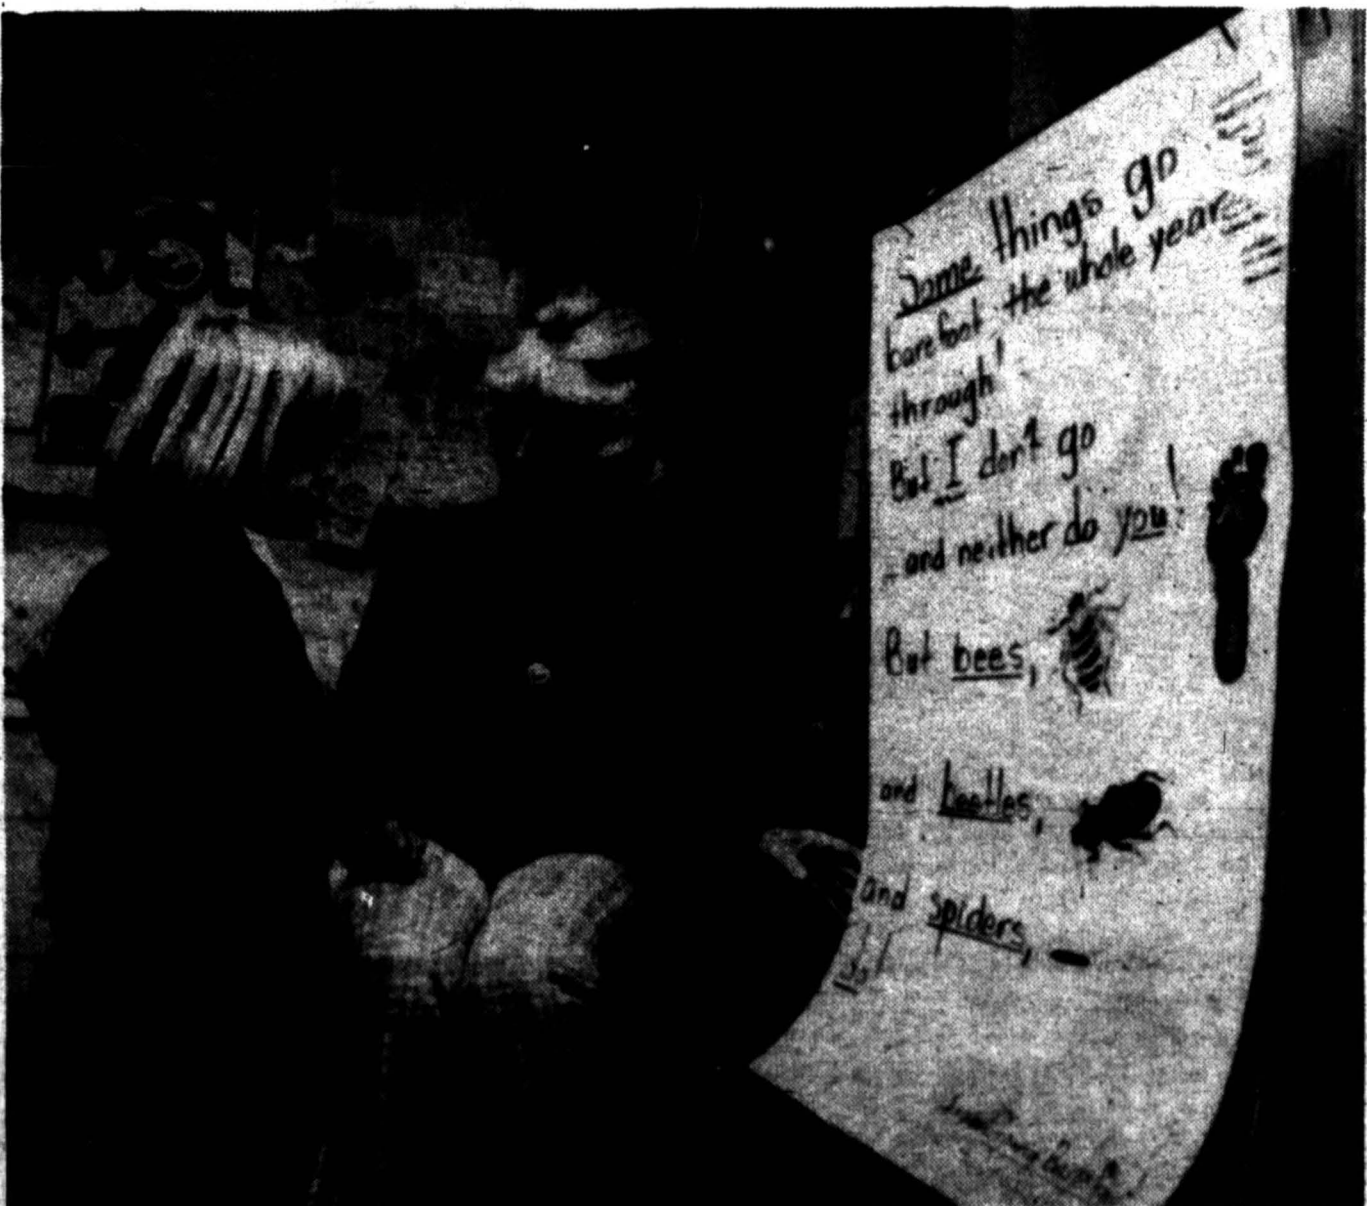

How does Kay Goines "come down" from the hectic pace?

"I relax. Walking, reading. I read a book in one sitting. I think leisure is the time you work the hardest. In my leisure I create those things which I want to do. Some people would call it work. I call it creation."

"Oh, I like to relax by being with friends. I have so many good friends. Being with them and sharing thoughts."

Mrs. Goines loves to quote poetry and when she talks of friends, she is reminded of the line: "Some people have lots and lots of friends, but everyone has at least one."

But her kindergarten students have two friends: themselves and Kay Goines.

KAY GOINES believes that the arts are an important educational tool. Above, birthday girl Maya Hudson reads a poem to the class as her "gift" to them.

UP FOR several hours before school begins, an energetic Kay Goines leads the children in a series of "wake up" exercises each mor-

FOG Foundation asks probe into Del Monte plan

By ROBERT MISKIMON

THE FOG Foundation of Carmel has asked the Securities and Exchange Commission to investigate "misleading" and "confusing" statements by 20th Century Fox Film Corp. about development plans in Del Monte Forest.

The Hollywood film corporation owns half of the Pebble Beach Co.; the other half is owned by Aetna Life and Casualty.

A report by 20th Century Fox filed Dec. 23, 1981 with the Securities and Exchange Commission on corporate activities presents a distorted and inaccurate picture of development and land use within the Del Monte Forest, FOG Chairwoman Anne Holliday wrote to the federal regulatory agency last week.

The FOG Foundation objected to a statement in the 20th Century Fox report to the effect that "a master development plan has been formulated by Pebble Beach for presentation to the Monterey County supervisors and the California Coastal Commission. This plan is presently under review by both agencies."

The board of supervisors Tuesday postponed consideration of the Del Monte Forest Local Coastal Program which had been scheduled for May 17. A staff report and analysis of comments made at an April 27 public hearing will be presented to supervisors, but the public hearing has closed.

The document has not yet been submitted to the Coastal Commission for action, the FOG Foundation pointed out in its letter to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

"This extremely controversial company plan is before the county board of supervisors, who must complete the review process before the final certification and submission to the California Coastal Commission. This company plan, the so-called Peters/Moore plan, is the subject of an unprecedented controvery within our local community."

Critics of the Del Monte Forest LCP developed by Supervisors William Peters of Carmel Valley and Michal Moore of Del Rey Oaks have charged that the plan is a thinly-disguised version of the 1977 Pebble Beach Corp. development plan for the Forest.

Supervisors have reduced the number of permitted new homes in the LCP by 160, from the original 1,496 allowed in the Peters/Moore plan. The plan also would permit construction of a 270-room hotel at Spanish Bay.

The Monterey County Grand Jury has requested the California Attorney General's Office to investigate allegations of impropriety in the preparation of the Peters/Moore LCP. The grand jury was asked to probe the matter by the FOG Foundation.

A STATEMENT in the 20th Century Fox report to the effect that "a major addition" is planned at Spanish Bay was also questioned by Ms. Holliday as "misleading and confusing."

"It implies that an addition is planned to an existing facility," she wrote to the S.E.C. "You will be amazed to learn that at present there is no building at Spanish Bay. It is, rather, a mined-out, wind-swept sand dunes area with no building other than a derelict old shack or two."

Another reference to "expansion" at Spanish Bay incorrectly implies that there is some type of resort facility already in existence there, the FOG Foundation stated.

Harry Holmes, president of Pebble Beach Co., characterized the FOG letter as "extreme nit-picking," and asked: "Where have they (FOG Foundation) been all their lives before they came here to 'save' this area?"

The development plan for Del Monte Forest developed by the company was the result of "a lot of give-and-take" between the property owners and the company, Holmes said.

"This is not a plan the Pebble Beach Co.

has drawn up," he said. "This was drawn up over a long time with the homeowners' association; it took four years to reach an agreement between us. It's true the plan hasn't been sent to the Coastal Commission, but the county has been reviewing it with the Coastal Commission staff."

"At the last hearing at the county level the Coastal Commission staff read a statement on areas where they thought some changes should be made in the plan."

So far as the Spanish Bay development is concerned, there ought to be no confusion about whether the hotel would be an addition to an existing resort, Holmes said.

"Maybe 'addition' is a poor choice of words, but they were thinking of an additional resort to what is already in Pebble Beach. I have seen memos from Mr. (S.F.B.) Morse back to the early 1960s in regard to that Spanish Bay plan."

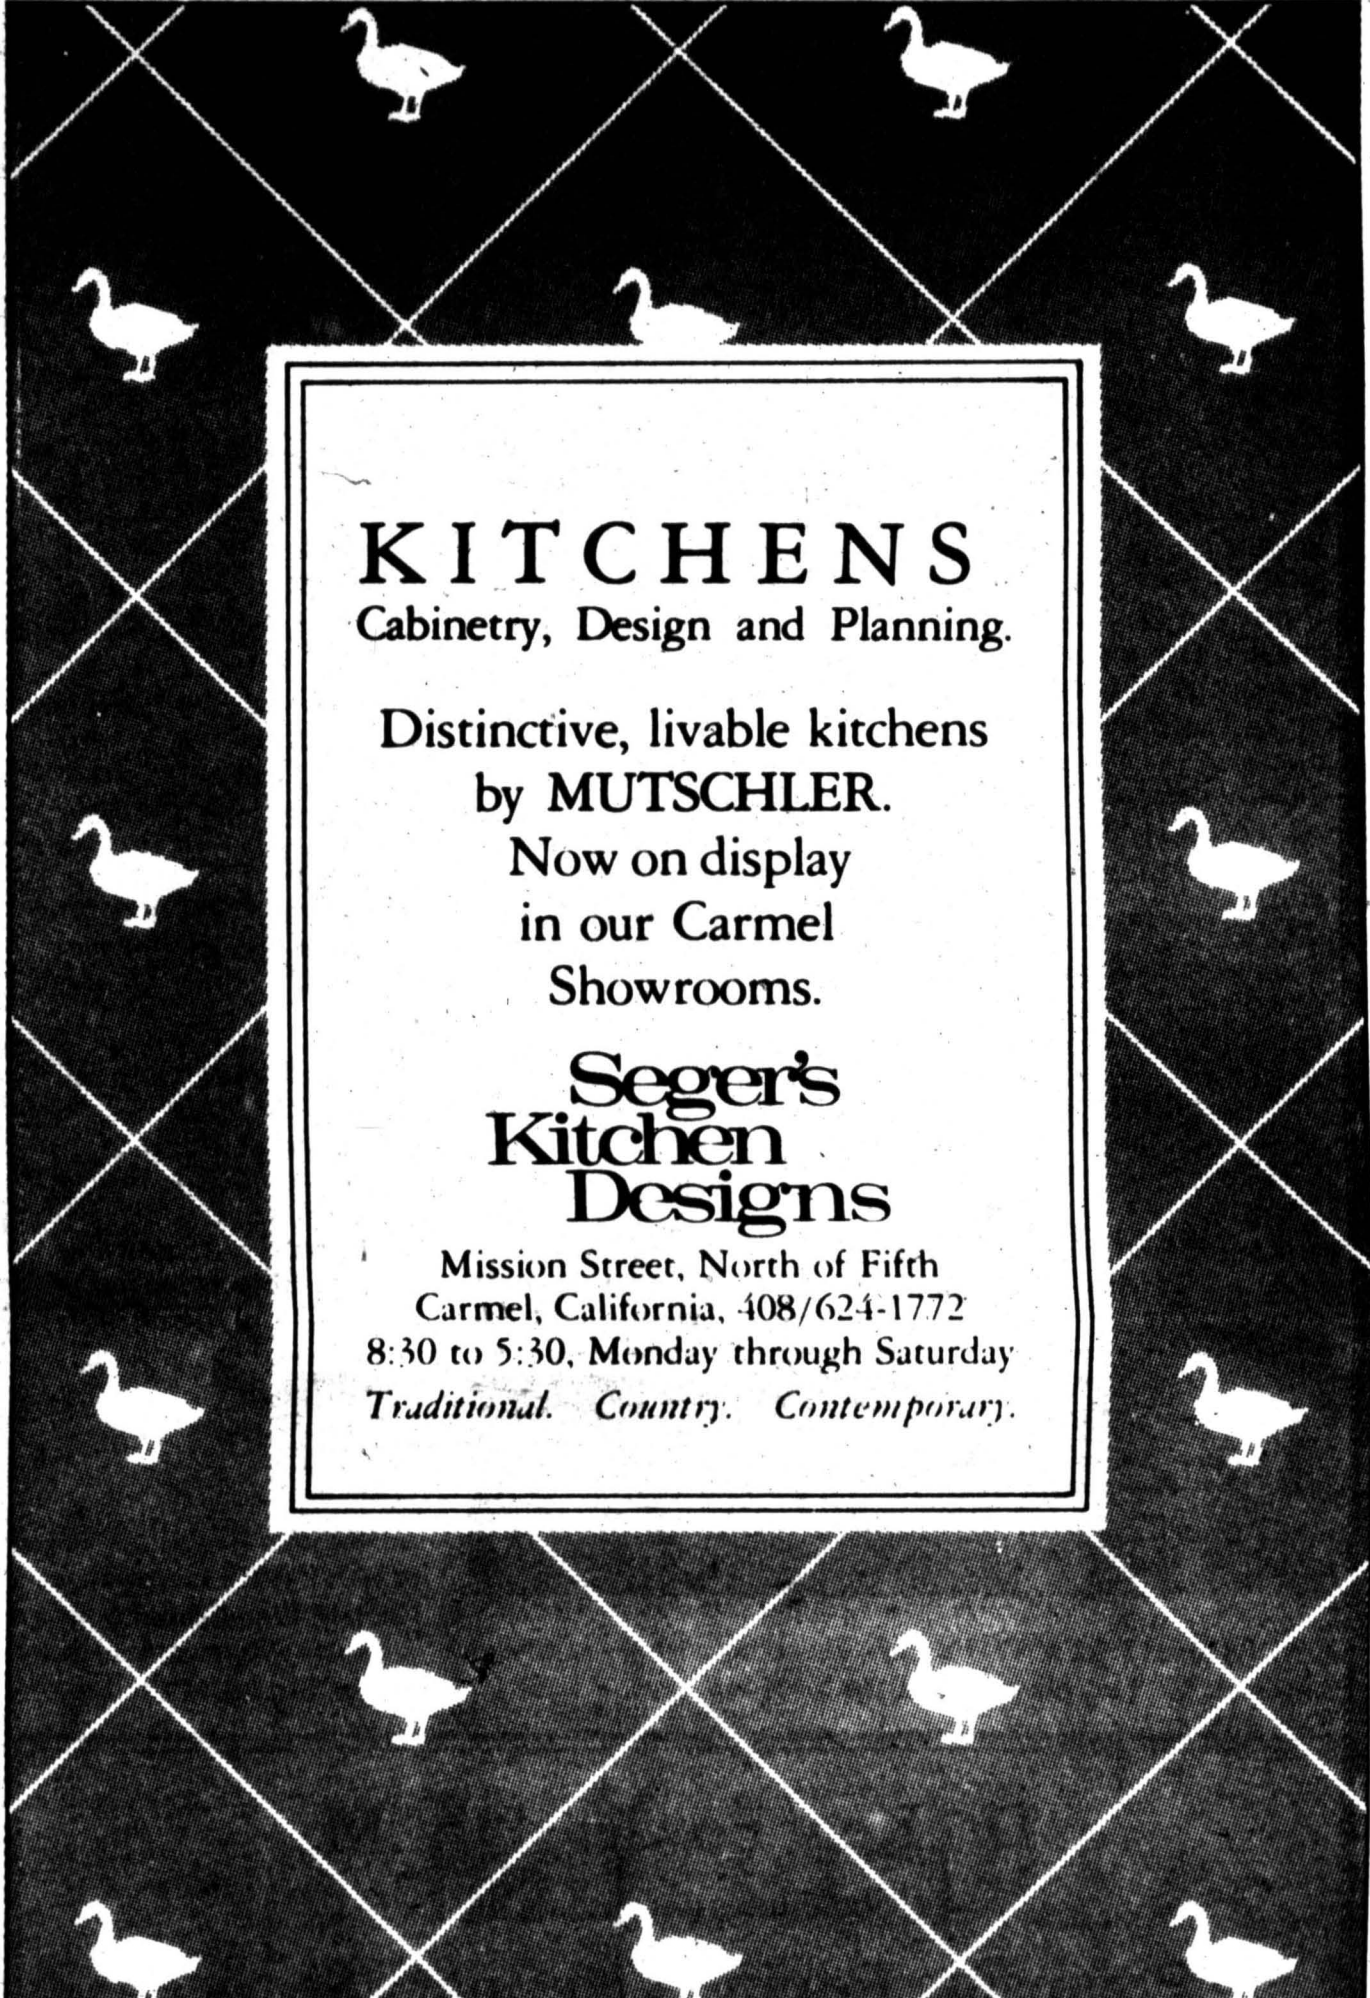

"This plan has not been developed lightly," he added. "Even at complete buildout, which will not occur in my lifetime, there will be 2,000 acres of open space. That's larger than the entire city of Pacific Grove."

"I consider this (letter) really kind of strange and unproductive."

REPLACEMENT of old water mains in the Carmel Woods area by California-American Water Co. started, as promised, last week on San Luis Avenue. Residents have asked the water utility to upgrade equipment and provide more water pressure for the last year.

Annual antique show May 21-23

By TERRI LEE ROBBE

UNITED VOLUNTARY SERVICES ANTIQUE SHOW AND SALE

Whether you're interested in doing a bit of early Christmas shopping or just browsing, the upcoming Eighth Annual Monterey County Antique Show and Sale sponsored by the United Voluntary Services should be worth the $2.50 donation.

Eighty dealers from California and Nevada will display their varied wares at the show to be held in two large buildings at the west end of the Monterey County Fairgrounds Friday, May 21 through Sunday, May 23.

Betty Patchin Green, publicity chairwoman, says the show promises to come up to "big city" standards set by the San Francisco and Hillsborough exhibits sponsored by UVS under the supervision of national President Mrs. Louis Lengfeld.

Monterey Unit President is Mrs. Henry Ragsdale.

All profits from the show will go to Monterey County charities: The Blind Service Center, Monterey County Braille Transcribers, Monterey County Symphony (Children's Concerts), Toro School for the Hearing Impaired, Guide Dogs for the Blind, Museum on Wheels, Hearing Impaired-High School, Carraig (Salinas based handicapped self-help program).

Hours for the show are: 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. — May 21; 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. — May 22; 12 noon to 6 p.m. — May 23.

Social news from UVS is the recent annual membership spring tea to honor their national President, Helen Lengfeld, who was recently inducted into the California Golf Hall of Fame.

The tea was held last Thursday in the old and beautiful home of Lewis Scott and Jack Keller, known as "Father Serra's Pear Orchard" (next to the Carmel Mission.)

Unfortunately Helen wasn't able to attend but those who did were treated to sunny weather as they browsed through the grounds, ablaze with a variety of blooming flowers, and toured the Scott-Keller home.

An array of canapes, prepared by the ladies, was served in the garden. That gracious lady, Artie Early, was kept busy serving delicious "sun tea" made by our very own Virginia Stanton who was in a delightful mood as she helped UVS President, Kitty Ragsdale, welcome guests.

Another lovely lady who helped out was Nell Meyer, who along with Virginia, is involved in Guide Dogs For The Blind.

Representatives from organizations who benefit from UVS were present to receive checks. These included Kathy Wise and her guide dog, Brama. Brama, by the way, was delighted with all the attention she received, but at no time did she make even the slightest move to venture away from Kathy. The love between dog and master was an inspiration to everyone present.

MRS. GEORGE E. FLETCHER (left) and Mrs. George Dietterle enjoyed refreshments at the UVS tea.

MRS. ROBERT STANTON (left) accepted a finger sandwich from Mrs. C. Tod Singleton at the UVS tea.

BARNEY AND ELINOR VACATIONING IN MUSIC CITY

Barney and Elinor Laiolo escaped before I could get all the details so for now we'll just have to settle for the fact that they're off on a month long vacation which will include a stop in Nashville, Tenn., to see Barney's son, Tony, and his family. Word is that Tony is all set to record five songs (words and music by Tony) and if "word" is "fact" then it's for sure that Tony is in the right town.

BASEBALL LOVERS HEAD TO THE CITY FOR BIG GAME

Three people who totally agree that the old saying "baseball gets in your blood" is true are Claude and Irene Boles — and yours truly. Having been married to a professional baseball player for 10 years (before his death) I well remember the fun and fear of living out of suitcases and setting up camp in such places as New York (farmed out to Syracuse by the Cincinnati Reds), Oklahoma and Oregon. And then there was "winter ball" in South America, Mexico and other faraway places.

Claude and Irene are such avid fans that during spring training their home base is their condominium in Pompano Beach, Fla., so they can more easily travel up and down the coast and root for the Texas Rangers, Atlanta Braves, New York Yankees and the good old Los Angeles Dodgers. The Boles are good friends with the likes of Cincinnati Reds catcher Johnny Bench and Doug Decinces, who is with the California Angels.

Another special event which the Boles share with a group of fellow friends and baseball rooters is to rent a bus and go to San Francisco for the big game. This year it's the Oakland A's versus The Yankees on May 15.

Most of the same people have been participating in this event for the past eight years and it's one bus trip that's anything but dull. On the ride up they enjoy cocktails and lunch and the trip home offers more cocktails and gourmet hors d'oeuvres.

Traveling with the Boles this year will be Dan and Vonda Tibbitts, Jim and Margie Stephenson, Dr. William and Patty McAfee, Nancy Forbush and Phil Batchelder, Jay and Kip Hudson, Harold and Jane Houghton, Fred and Pauline Stanley, John and Jean Mahoney, Bob and Sarah Bonner, Steve and Jackie Rombert, Ernie and Dorothy Singleton, David and Alice Hopkins, Dick and Clare Berlin and Jack and Gini Dougherty.

Claude, who says that his motto for almost everything is "No Big Deal," also says that most of the people in the group are about half his age but "they raised me up right!" Claude celebrated his 80th birthday last year and on July 7 he expects the parties to help him bring in his 81st in grand style. Another biggie for the month of July is that on the 24th Claude and Irene will celebrate their 48th wedding anniversary.

And if that isn't enough, on the day of the bus trip, Claude will celebrate his 64th year of entry into the Navy. Three cheers and you're a winner. Claude!

LUNCHEON AND FASHION SHOW TO BENEFIT ZONTA CLUB

More than 200 members and friends of the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of Zonta International attended the recent luncheon-fashion show held at the Lodge at Pebble Beach.

Phyllis Hubbard coordinated and was commentator for the show which featured an array of summer fashions for every occasion.

The fashions were provided by Merchants from Carmel Plaza who also donated $1,000 to the Zonta organization.

After a salad luncheon and before the fashion show, Joan Gustavson gave a demonstration of flower arrangements.

Music was provided by Bill Bolthouse's Studio 55.

NEIL AND MAXINE JENSEN RUNNING BED AND BREAKFAST INN

Where are all the Carmelites going? Well, I can't keep up with all of them but I did receive a note from Neil and Maxine Jensen (Neil was vice-principal of Carmel High School for many years) and they say there are now retired — and have purchased and are renovating The Broadway Hotel, a bed and breakfast inn in the gold country.

The so-called retirement came to a sudden end when the former Carmelites became proprietors.

Their hotel was built originally as a miner's hotel and restaurant in 1904. The couple has restored and furnished it in a traditional manner complete with antique furniture.

And just like in merry olde England, the couple serves breakfast in a community breakfast room and the menu sounds enticing — coffee, fruit juice, fruit, cheese, nutbread and muffins. If you're an early riser and want to enjoy coffee on your very own balcony, it's available.

Let's wish the Jensens well on their new venture!

City council backs off from nuclear initiative

"I'M NOT SCARED. I want to be here to see that great big blast we paid for."

With those words, Carmel City Councilman Frank Lloyd withdrew his motion May 4 that Carmel lend its support to California's anti-nuclear weapons initiative.

Lloyd placed the matter on the council agenda in hopes his colleagues would endorse efforts of the Monterey County Coalition for a Nuclear Weapons Freeze to send a message to Gov. Jerry Brown.

The message would take the form of an initiative on the November ballot if the required number of signatures is obtained statewide. The initiative is only advisory, and would require the governor to send this message to President Ronald Reagan:

"The people of the State of California, recognizing that the safety and security of the United States must be paramount in the concerns of the American people; and further recognizing that our national security is reduced, not increased, by the growing danger of nuclear war between the United States and the Soviet Union which would result in millions of deaths of people in California and throughout the nation;

"Do hereby urge that the government of the United States propose to the government of the Soviet Union that both countries agree to immediately halt the testing, production, and further deployment of all nuclear weapons, missiles and delivery systems in a way that can be checked and verified by both sides."

But some members of the city council balked at the thought of a municipal government taking a position on a state, national or global political issue.

"Personally I would like to support it, but as a city council member I don't know if I can support it on behalf of Carmel citizens," Councilman David Maradei said. "It disturbs me that my own personal views on nuclear weapons are involved. A more appropriate format would be a ballot initiative."

"I'm just as frightened by nuclear weapons as anyone, but I can't see where this is an item for the city council," Councilman Robert Stephenson remarked.

Former Councilman Howard Brunn urged the council to support the initiative: "I don't agree that many small cities can't stand up and be counted on issues like this."

Brunn asked for the use of Carmel City Hall to schedule a public meeting to inform Monterey Peninsula citizens about the World Security Council. Brunn said the organization hopes to create a "buffer zone" of high energy beam weapons around the globe, to destroy nuclear missiles at their source when launched.

The system would rely on a non-trust agreement between the major nuclear powers of the world, Brunn explained.

"It appears that this issue will confront the voters of Carmel in November anyway," City Administrator Doug Peterson told the council. He cautioned against allowing the World Security Council to use city hall, since "other groups may approach the city to use the hall on the same basis."

Mayor Charlotte Townsend said after the meeting she is personally in support of the initiative and said she signed it at her church, but questioned whether the city should take a position.

"The appropriateness of the city being involved will take some investigation," the mayor said. "If we do something, it should be more than just a gesture. This is a question that should remain in our minds; we should examine some means of effectively expressing ourselves."

Deaths

William B. Williams

William B. Williams, Carmel, died May 1 at Community Hospital following a brief illness. He was 90.

Mr. Williams was born Aug. 21, 1891, in Australia. He moved to the Peninsula in 1931. He practiced as an optometrist in Monterey for many years, with offices in the Professional Building.

Mr. Williams was a member of All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel and of various Masonic bodies. He also acted in little theater groups and sang in the Bach Festival choir for many years.

Survivors include his wife, Amy May of Carmel.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggested memorial contributions to All Saints' Episcopal Church.

Eugene Ames Baker

Eugene Ames Baker, Peninsula artist, died May 2 at Community Hospital after a brief illness. He was 54.

Mr. Baker was born Jan. 6, 1928, in Dyersburg, Tenn. He taught art at Pacific Grove High School until 1952. He also taught art at Monterey Peninsula College in the evening for four years.

He was a member of the Carmel Art Association and served on the board of directors. He was listed in "Who's Who in American Art" and was nominated for a gold medal by the Academia Italia in 1979.

Mr. Baker maintained his own gallery in Carmel Valley for a time and his paintings were hung in Carmel's Zantman Galleries.

Survivors include his wife, Ann, of the family home in Carmel Valley, and daughters Kim Baker Challis of Seaside and Kathy Baker of Monterey.

The California Cremation Society was in charge of arrangements.

William D. Bishop

William D. Bishop, Hacienda Carmel, died May 3 at Carmel Convalescent Hospital after long illness. He was 85.

Mr. Bishop was born July 12, 1897, in Laurium, Mich. He came to the Peninsula in 1962 after retiring as vice president of Automatic Products Co. in Detroit.

He was a life member of Highland Park Masonic Lodge in Michigan and an Army veteran of World War II. A member of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rites of Detroit, he was a 50-year member of the Grand Lodge of Michigan and a 25-year member of the Moslem Temple Shrine of Detroit.

Survivors include his wife, Edith, of Hacienda Carmel retirement community in Carmel Valley; brother, H.M. Bishop, of Saginaw, Mich.; a grandson and two great-grandchildren.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Harry H. Grandt

Harry H. Grandt, Carmel, died May 5 at Community Hospital following a period of failing health. He was 71.

Mr. Grandt was born in Chicago July 24, 1910. He was associated with Roberts and Porter Inc. for 49 years, retiring in 1978 as president and chairman of the board. He was a former member of the board of the Graphic Arts Technical Association, and after moving to Carmel 10 years ago, he served as a member of the board of directors of Beacon House alcoholism recovery facility in Pacific Grove.

Survivors include his wife, Ruth; daughters, Marilyn Van Tine of Valhalla, N.Y., Margaret Heron of Commack, N.Y., and Susan Bee of Garden City, and eight grandchildren.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggested memorial contributions to Beacon House, 468 Pine Ave., Pacific Grove 93950.

Herbert A. Pihl

Herbert A. Pihl, of Carmel, died May 5 at Monterey Pines Convalescent Hospital. He was 88.

Mr. Pihl was born May 21, 1893, in Galesburg, Ill. He was a supervisor for the Burlington Northern Railroad in Illinois for 47 years. He was also a veteran of World War I and a member of the Illinois Masonic Lodge.

Survivors include his wife, Pauline; his sons, Herbert Jr. of Carmel, Ted of Venice, Fla., Jack of Morristown, N.J., and Jerry of Fort Wayne, Ind.; his daughter, Nancy P. Furry of Col-dwater, Mich.; and 10 grandchildren.

The California Cremation Society was in charge of arrangements.

George A. Leader

George A. Leader, Pebble Beach, died May 6 at Community Hospital following a lengthy illness. He was 78.

Mr. Leader was born Dec. 4, 1903, in Ontario, Canada. He moved to Pebble Beach last January from Seattle, where he had served as president of the Western Hockey League for 30 years.

Survivors include his wife, Clara; sons, Allen H. of Greenwich, Conn., and Ray of Seattle; daughters, Dawn Gillespie and Ruth Shaw, both of Seattle; stepson, Robert J. Ferko of Anchorage, Alaska, and stepdaughter, Marilyn Heflin of Sutter Creek.

The Mission Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.

Elizabeth R. Sullivan

Elizabeth R. Sullivan, Carmel, died May 6 at the Monterey Pines Skilled Nursing Home following a lengthy illness. She was 93.

Mrs. Sullivan was born in New York City Aug. 4, 1888.

Survivors include a son, Frank, of Tulsa, Okla., and one grandchild.

The Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Karl Kidder

Karl Kidder, veteran newsman, died May 8 at the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula, Carmel Valley. He was 73.

Mr. Kidder was born March 5, 1909. He was a feature writer and columnist for the Fresno Bee for 35 years. He also wrote articles concerning medicine, science and the High Sierras, and many of these are in the Congressional Records.

Mr. Kidder was a long time member of the Fresno Rotary Club and a visiting member to the Rotary Club of Carmel.

Survivors include his wife Rosalind, of Carmel; two daughters, Lisa Hurd, Antioch and Susan Kidder, Fresno; stepson F. Allan Burg, Pebble Beach; stepdaughter Cynthia Loweberg, Northfork, Cal. and seven grandchildren.

The California Cremation Society was in charge of local arrangements. The family suggested memorial contributions be made to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

COMMUNITY

Rev. James Clark Brown will present the sermon on Sunday, May 16 at the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula.

Nursery care is provided. Ample parking for the handicapped is available.

The church is a mile east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road. Services are at 10:30 a.m.

Music and inspirational message are presented by Rev. Brown on KRML.

Who will pay for water use program?

If the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District wants to start a conservation program, it will have to pay most — if not all — of the costs.

Manager Bruce Buel said he doubts that the Carmel Sanitary District and the Monterey Regional Water Pollution Control Agency will budget very much money for the $30,000 program.

A sub-committee of the three agencies that was formed to explore joint water and sewer conservation programs will meet at the water district office at 3 p.m., May 13 to discuss Buel's proposal.

Buel said he will ask the other two managers — Michael Zambory of Carmel and Bob Jaques of Monterey — to propose program funding to their respective boards.

"It's not dead. My sense is that it will go ahead if the water district will carry the majority of the funding," Buel said. "Zambory and Jaques honestly believe that the sewer users will not benefit enough to warrant participation."

Buel's proposal calls for the three agencies to contribute funds to a program that would concentrate on retrofitting, new construction standards, public relations and education.

Under the program, a full-time employee would be hired to oversee the conservation efforts. Each agency would contribute proportionate to benefits received.

Buel believes that the program could eventually lead to a 15 percent reduction in water use on the peninsula.

1410AM Sundays, 10:30-11 a.m.

MADRIGAL, CHORAL CONCERT AT UNITED METHODIST

The Camerata Singers present the concert Choral Music Old and New. The "old" pieces on the program are of the Late Madrigal period of 1580-1620 and include Italian Madrigals. The stylistic features of this latter period are: more chromaticism, dramatic effects, vocal virtuosity, rich sonorities and much text painting.

The "new" (20th century) chorals include: From and Unknown Past, Ned Rorem (1923-), Wedding Cantata — Daniel Pinkham (1923-) and Serenade to Music — Ralph Vaughan Williams (1872-1958).

The sixteen members of the Camerata singers are directed by Dr. Vahe' Aslanian and accompanied by Rebecca Nelson and Pauline Thomas.

Carmel would be 'test tube' for water allocation system usage is considerable," Peterson informed the council May 4.

"Because of Carmel's small size and very limited amount of growth projected, Carmel becomes the test tube for the entire water management district because we are confronted by the need to react to our limited allocation earlier than any other jurisdiction."

An immediate improvement in Carmel's share of the allocation formula could be realized through a simple, arithmetic adjustment, according to the city administrator.

When the 1979 formula was computed, total use by jurisdictions within the water management district was 14,181 ac. ft. This figure was then rounded off to 15,000 ac. ft., Peterson noted.

When the projected growth in each city was added, the total projected use by the year 2,000 came to 19,370 ac. ft., which was also rounded off to 20,000 ac. ft.

PETERSON said reallocation of the difference produced by the two rounding procedures would produce 1,449 ac. ft. of water — some of which could be allocated to Carmel.

"The basic question posed in this situation is the extent to which our water policy should be demand responsive or demand restrictive," Peterson told the council. "Carmel's allocation amounts to 5.545 percent of the 20,000 ac. ft. supply, or 1,090 ac. ft."

"The allocation is established as a percentage. If the supply of water increases or decreases, our allocation in quantity terms will increase or decrease commensurately."

Another way to adjust the water allocation more equitably for Carmel would be to limit additional water to cities based on actual — not projected — growth, Peterson suggested.

"If a city has not constructed the additional residential units contemplated then its allocation figure would not grow," he told the council. "With the current allocation scheme, this is one of the few ways in which all jurisdictions will be induced to adopt conservation procedures at the same time."

In the area of water conservation, Carmelites have been quite cooperative, Peterson said. Residential water usage in Carmel is about 70 gallons per day, per person — about half the typical use in the United States, he indicated.

The city administrator is to report to the council on possible distribution of water conservation kits in Carmel and to present possible modifications to city ordinances to conserve water.

LLOYD BASKERVILLE, a teacher at Carmel High School for 23 years, was one of two Peninsula educators to receive the first Griffin Teaching Award, named after long-time area publisher Alan Griffin. Also honored was Monterey Peninsula College Professor Grant Voth. Baskerville was nominated by Carmel Unified Schools Superintendent Bill Rand, who said: "It is refreshing to discover someone who truly loves his work. Mr. Baskerville's commitment to students at Carmel High School extends beyond the classroom." Principal Marsha Kading added: "Mr. Baskerville has the unique ability to engender in students a love not only for art, but their fellow human beings. He has helped students change their life direction when they seemed to be destined for self-destruction."

Sports stars will play in celebrity golf benefit

49er Solomon wants to help kidney research

Freddie Solomon, star wide receiver and top touchdown producer of the Super Bowl Champions, the San Francisco 49ers, will host the Freddie Solomon Celebrity Golf Tournament to benefit the National Kidney Foundation on Monday, May 17 at the Carmel Valley Golf & Country Club, Carmel Valley Road and Valley Greens Drive, Carmel Valley.

The one-day tournament will use the scramble system with a shotgun start. One celebrity will be teamed with four golfers. There will be 189 players in 36 fivesomes.

Registration will be from 8:30 a.m.-9:30 at the Pro Shop. Tournament action is scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m. and continue until 4 p.m.

Twice during his NFL career, Solomon has sustained kidney injuries. As a result, he has become very aware of the work of the National Kidney Foundation. He has volunteered his services to the foundation, devoting a major portion of his off-season time to raising funds for it. The golf tournament is a major part of his fund-raising efforts.

"Professional athletics has been good to me and I want to give back to the community as much as I possibly can," Solomon said.

Solomon, a graduate of the University of Tampa, is regarded by many as the finest running quarterback in collegiate football history. In his college career at Tampa, he accounted for 50 touchdowns — 30 of them rushing.

This is Solomon's seventh year in the National Football League. In the NFL he has not only played as a wide receiver and punt returner, but as a quarterback and a running back. Typical of his versatility was a 252-yard, three-touchdown game he had while playing for the Miami Dolphins against the Buffalo Bills. His performance included a 79-yard punt return, a 59-yard flanker reverse and a 53-yard pass reception.

In 1975 Solomon was named to the NFL All-Rookie team by the Dolphins. He was traded from the Dolphins to the 49ers in 1978 and was named an All-AFL punt returner by Pro Football Weekly in 1980.

Solomon leads the NFL active players in pass receiving and punt returning. He is probably the most consistent deep threat among wide receivers with 29 regular season touchdown receptions to his credit. He started in 15 of 16 games in the 1981 season. Solomon caught at least one pass in every

Cartoonist Murray Olderman will be at Thunderbird autograph party

A buffet luncheon and super autograph party featuring cartoonist Murray Olderman, author of 49er Pro-Files, 49er Freddie Solomon and other 49er stars is scheduled Saturday, May 15 at the Thunderbird Bookshop and Restaurant, The Barnyard, Highway 1 and Rio Rd., Carmel.

The Carmel Cartoonists Group will honor Olderman and 49er celebrities with a quiche and salad bar buffet from noon to 1:30 p.m. on the Thunderbird patio. Cost is $6.50, including beverage.

Olderman, Solomon and 49er players Lawrence Pillers, Mike Shumann, Dwaine Board, Milt McColl, and R.C. Owens will be present for an autograph party from 1:30-3:30 at the Thunderbird.

Olderman, a close observer of professional football for 30 years, has written four authoritative books on the game. He is a syndicated columnist and cartoonist for United Media Enterprises and is past president of the Football Writers Association of America.

Carmel High Pawnshop Players will stage the comedy 'Bedroom Farce'

Bedroom Farce, a hilarious comedy by Alan Ayckbourn, will be staged by the Pawnshop Players of Carmel High School at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 14-15, 21-22, at the high school, Ocean Ave., Carmel.

This production of Bedroom Farce is the first showing on the West Coast outside of San Francisco.

Ayckbourn describes Bedroom Farce as a comedy as well as a farce. "Comedy, I read somewhere, consists of larger than life characters in real situations. Farce, on the other hand, portrays real characters projected into incredible situations. Bedroom Farce is a comedy about real characters who, projected into incredible situations, start behaving in a larger than life manner as the situation appears to them too horribly real," said Ayckbourn.

Directed by Diana Hardy, Bedroom Farce tells the story of a couple, Trevor and Susanah, whose marriage is on the rocks. They inflict their miseries on their good friends and on Trevor's parents.

The potentially violent Trevor is portrayed by Jim Costain and his neurotic wife is played by Sharon Epel. Also starring in the production are Karen Morrill and John Seydel as Trevor's parents, Delia and Ernest; Carol Heiland and Philippe Masquelier as the newlyweds, Kate and Malcolm; Clint McCleery as Nick; and Kristen Lindgren as Jan.

Admission is $3 adults and $1.50 students. Tickets are available at the door.

58th annual event:

Del Monte Kennel Club attracts 500 blue ribbon-winning dogs

Blue ribbon winners all, 500 purebred dogs are expected to compete at the 58th Annual Del Monte Kennel Club dog show, Sunday, May 16 on the lawn near the 18th fairway at The Lodge, Pebble Beach. Classes will begin at 9 a.m. The Best of Show award, presented to the best of all breeds at the event, will be awarded at 5:30 p.m.

"Entries in the show are limited to dogs that have been recorded as breed champions or dogs that have been credited with at least one championship point rating at other American Kennel Club shows," explained show chairman Kay Thrasher of Salinas. The Del Monte Kennel Club event and the Westminster Kennel Club show at Madison Square Garden are considered the top dog shows in the country.

The popular obedience classes will include 78 entrants. Their obedience will be tested in simple exercises — come, sit, stay — and complex commands including scent discrimination and retrieving over high and broad jumps.

A special feature during the noon hour will be a demonstration by a volunteer rescue squad from Santa Cruz. This rescue squad was used during the mud slides at the Love Creek site in January.

Among the judges for the Del Monte Kennel Club Show are two of the most eminent obedience judges in the country, Dr. Jacklyn E. Hungerland of Carmel and Eowwer Robert T. Self of Galesburg, Ill. Others judges include Derek G. Rayne of Carmel, Sue and Edmund J. Kauffman Jr. of Sarasota, Fla., Frank T. Sabella of Los Angeles, and Dr. Harold and Mrs. Margaret Spira of Castle Hill, Australia.

This year the Del Monte Kennel Club honors the memory of Col. Allen Griffin, past honorary president of the club.

Tickets are $4 and may be purchased at any gate into Pebble Beach. A portion of the receipts from this year's show will be donated to Young Life and the Carmel Middle School Parent-Faculty Club. Last year, nearly 2,500 spectators attended the show.

A WELSH CORGI won the silver trophies, blue ribbons and glory when it was judged Best in Show at the 1981 Del Monte Kennel Club dog show. The winner this year will be chosen from among outstanding representatives of more than 100 different breeds who will compete at the 58th annual Del Monte show Sunday, May 16 at The Lodge, Pebble Beach.

Film review:

A true heroin horror tale

By LISA JENSEN

Christiane F. with Natja Brunckhorst and Thomas Haustein. Written by Herman Weigel. Directed by Ulrich Edel. A New World Pictures Release.

Even though it's a true story, Christiane F. is like one of those lurid high school films about the evils of sex and drugs and rock 'n roll. The real Christiane was a 14-year-old junkie prostitute who recounted her life on the streets of Berlin in a series of sensational magazine articles and a best selling book. This German film version captures the devastation of heroin addiction in relentlessly graphic detail, but it fails to bring its characters to life as anything more than the usual stereotypes.

Middle-class Christiane (Natja Brunckhorst) lives in an urban high-rise with her divorced working mother. At the disco she discovers pills and petting and gets her first terrified look at junkies sprawled like sacks of garbage in the public toilets. But she starts shooting up herself to impress her now boyfriend, Detlev (Thomas Haustein), who, along with his other junkie pals, cruises a notorious downtown subway station by day for homosexual pick-ups to help support his habit. Christiane soon dyes her hair orange and joins them.

The film paints a chillingly visceral portrait of hollow-eyed junkies prowling around the urban netherworld, but it can't make any sense out of how or why they got there. Of course, heroin addiction isn't a sensible activity, but there's no coherent dramatic transition between Christiane's initial horror of the drug and her abrupt decision to join in and be cool. The kids only discuss these matters in non-verbal grunt dialog that seems to be left over from Quest for Fire, while Christiane's fleeting minor jealousies over her mom's boyfriend and Detlev's female connection are the only feeble clues the film provides. And Brunckhorst is too passive and inexperienced an actress to convey the acute despair necessary for the character to work.

The behavior of Christiane's mother is just as odd. She's wise and caring, yet doesn't seem to notice the ravages of her daughter's addiction. When she finally does figure it out, she rounds up Detlev so they can kick the habit together, but it doesn't occur to her to take the kids to a medical clinic; their harrowing cold-turkey withdrawal seems to take place in a locked room with no supervision whatsoever.

Meanwhile, the film nearly ODs on a facile pop symbolism so heavy-handed, it's almost comical. David Bowie is condemned as a satanic Pied Piper leading kids to ruin with his devil music (even though his brief appearance is exploited in the ads to sell the film), and endless obvious parallels are drawn between the corpse-like, anemic junkies and the zombies in Night of the Living Dead. With its emphasis on pop culture flamboyance over the tougher issues beneath the surface of a junkie's life, Christiane F. becomes just another exploitation shocker.

For the beautifully co-ordinated home: custom curtains, pillow shams, dust ruffles, canopies, duvet covers, fabric covered walls, silver drawers.

What's playing at the movies

Bambi: The perennially popular animated creation of the Disney studios. The story of a little fawn and his adventures as he grows into a majestic stag. Rated G. At the Dream Theater.

Brother Sun, Sister Moon: A Franco Zeffirelli film. At the Dream Theater.

Cannery Row: Filmed on the Monterey Peninsula, this film recreates the boisterous Monterey waterfront of the 1940's, a haven for derelicts, dreamers and nonconformists who triumph over harsh realities with their compassion and good humor intact. A touching love affair between Doc (Nick Nolte), an enigmatic and eccentric marine biologist and Suzy (Debra Winger), a pretty young drifter determined to survive. Audra Lindley stars as the shrewd, earthy madame. Narrated by John Huston. Rated R. At the Center Cinemas.

Cat People: Remake of the 1942 Jacques Tourneur cult film. Starring Nastassia Kinski, Malcolm McDowell and John Heard in a surreal erotic fantasy set in New Orleans. Rated R. At the Regency.

Chariots of Fire: Oscar winner for the best movie of 1981. A wealthy Jewish boy becomes a star runner and a Scots missionary sprints for the glory of God. The two men, driven in different ways, lead England to gold medals and glory in the 1924 Olympics in Paris. Beautifully blended color photography. Starring Ben Cross, Ian Charleson, and Alice Krige. Rated PG. At the Golden Bough.

Clash of the Titans: An adventure about the Greek gods. With Laurence Olivier as Zeus, Maggie Smith, Claire Bloom and Harry Hamlin as Zeus' son Perseus who battles wild beasts. Rated PG. At the Hill Theatre.

Conan The Barbarian: Arnold Schwarzenegger (Mr. Body Beautiful) stars. Rated R. At the Cinema 70.

Death Trap: An Edgar Wallace mystery filmed in England in 1960. A girl, played by Barbara Shelly, learns her deceased sister drew some money from the bank before her death, but it seems to have disappeared. Albert Lieven also stars. Rated PG. At the Valley Cinema.

Dragonslayer: played by Peter MacNichol, is a film for all ages. Paramount Pictures and Walt Disney Productions present this spectacular film. At the Hill Theatre.

Fame: Drama of teenage actors, dancers and musicians at New York's High School of the Performing Arts. Written by Christopher Gore and directed by Alan Parker (Midnight Express), the movie emphasizes the ethnic humor and abrasiveness of the city's youth, but then takes a turn toward maudlin melodrama. At the Dream Theater.

If You Could See What I Hear: A biographical film on the blind singer Tom Sullivan, focusing on his college years. Starring Marc Singer, R.H. Thompson, Sarah Torgor and Shari Belafonte Harper. At the Center Cinemas.

Making Love: A drama about a doctor who loves his wife but finds himself attracted to another man. Michael Ontkean, Kate Jackson and Harry Hamlin star. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

On Golden Pond: Nominated for 10 academy awards and winner of 3 Golden Globe awards. Katharine Hepburn and Henry Fonda offer a story of a couple still passionately in love after 48 years. Jane Fonda plays their daughter. Rated PG. At the Carmel Village Theatre.

Paradise: With Willie Ames and C.B. Cates. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Partners: The oddest team on the squad and the funniest cops in America. Benson is the cop who wants to clean up the streets. His partner just wants to redecorate. Ryan O'Neal and John Hurt portray police officers masquerading as a gay couple in order to track down a homophile killer. At the Valley Cinema.

Personal Best: Mariel Hemingway and Patrice Donnelly play the roles of women competing for the U.S. Olympics track and field team. Their performances have a deep feeling of honesty. The track and field events are captured with amazing sensuousness. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Porky's: A ribald comedy of adolescence in the '50's directed by Bob Clark. The title is derived from the name of a notorious redneck dive to which six teenagers are hypnotically drawn in the belief that they can purchase carnal experience on its premises. A youthful comedy which is a showcase for the six talented actors. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Quest For Fire: If you loved Chewbacca, you'll go ape over Naoh, Gau and Ika in this film. A story about early man and our beginning. Many strange beasts of prehistoric times such as vicious saber-toothed tigers and Indian elephants. There are some scenes to make you laugh, whether intentional or not. Rated PG. At the Regency.

Rocky Horror Picture Show: A movie about two teenagers and a transvestite from another planet. Fri. and Sat. midnight show. At the Dream Theater.

Silent Rage: Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

The Sword and The Sorcerer: A fantasy adventure of the Dark Ages about a mysterious hero fighting against a medieval sorcerer and an evil king. Lots of battle scenes, dungeons, dragons, wizards and witches, damsels and desire and a warrior caught between. Starring Lee Horsely, Kathleen Beller. Rated R. At the Dream Theater.

Victor Victoria: Held over. Romantic comedy set in the 1930's Paris. Julie Andrews stars as a down-on-her-luck singer and James Garner as a tough Chicago nightclub owner, with Robert Preston, Lesley Ann Warren and Alex Karras. Rated PG. At the Dream Theater.

Hawaiian authors will present talk at Pilgrim's Way May 19

Paul and Valeta Rice of Kahului, Hawaii will speak on Numerology — Name Analysis at 7 p.m. Wednesday, May 19 at Pilgrim's Way Bookstore, Dolores between Fifth and Sixth, Carmel.

The Rices have been interested in metaphysical studies for more than 40 years. Their search for esoteric knowledge has carried them into astrology, reincarnation, palmistry, tarot, color healing, TM, music, I Ching, ESP dream analysis, the Kabala, yoga and other techniques as well as the science of numerology.

Valeta, a graduate of the University of Hawaii with a major in psychology, has compiled the esoteric knowledge from her studies, seminars and the guidance she received from meditation into a book.

Paul, a graduate of Iowa State University with a degree in engineering, uses a unique approach to teach the value and interpretation of numbers. He has brought a simplified method of understanding to the hundreds who have attended his classes.

The couple has combined talents and knowledge to inspire and assist students of metaphysical studies. Their name analysis classes, awareness seminars and psychic readings have been conducted in 50 states and Canada.

The lecture is free and the public is welcome.

For further information, phone 624-4955.

Shaw comedy continues in Carmel

"SHOW HIM WE'RE FRIENDS, Your Worship!" Androcles (Bill Cates) begs Caesar (Phillip Clarkson) while the lion (Leslie Robinson) pauses before enjoying a bite of Caesar in George Bernard Shaw's comedy, Androcles and the Lion. The comedy is staged by the Staff Players Repertory Company Thursdays through Sundays at 8:30 p.m. in the Indoor Forest Theater, Santa Rita and Mountain View, Carmel. For reservations, phone 624-1531.

First Pebble Beach combined test will challenge top horses, riders

The Pebble Beach Equestrian Center will present its First Annual Combined Test Saturday, May 15. The center is on Portola Rd., and 17-Mile Drive, Pebble Beach.

In a Combined Test, as recognized by the United States Combined Training Association, riders are scored on combined, cumulative points in two events — dressage and jumping. The Combined Test differs from a full Three-Day Event or Horse Trials in that there is no cross country jumping phase.

Judges Liselotte Fore of Menlo Park and Michael Assouline of Pebble Beach will judge dressage tests, which will be ridden in Forest Arena at the rear of the equestrian center. Sue Sally Hale, formerly of Carmel Valley, will be the technical delegate.

The event will begin with dressage rides at 8 a.m. Stadium jumping is scheduled for 2 p.m.

Among competitors expected to participate in the Combined Test are Equestrian Center instructors Rod Schriver and Cindy Austin.

Pebble Beach riders entered in the event include Ellen James, Erin and Kelly Crosby, Mollie Martin, Michelle and Suzanne Garrihy and Cindy Noel. Linda Drenna of Monterey and Mary Wiltse of Carmel will also participate.

Spectators may attend the combined test free of charge, but the gate fee into Del Monte Forest will be in effect. Refreshments will be available on the grounds.

game and set the team mark by doing so in 30 straight games. He hauled 59 passes for 969 yards in 1981 for an average of 16.4 yards.

Twice, Solomon topped the 100-yard mark in receiving and made eight touchdown catches in 1981. Last season, he made 29 punt returns for 173 yards.

Jack Hansen, KGO-TV personality, will be master of ceremonies. Participating celebrities in addition to Solomon will include John Ayres, John Choma, Randy Cross, Milt McColl, Bill Ring, Charlie Young, Guy Benjamin, Dwight Clark, Walt Downing, Craig Puki and Mike Schuman as well as 49ers coaches Sam Wyche, Billy Mathews, Milt Jackson and Billy Weston. Members of the San Francisco Giants, Oakland Raiders and Hollywood comedian Jonny Yune are also expected to participate.

Gallery tickets are $10. The Carmel Valley Golf & Country Club is 3.5 miles east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road. For further information, phone 624-2779.

Noted woman journalist will give talk in Carmel

Fran Hosken, international journalist, publisher of Women's International Network (WIN) News and authority on global problems of women, will address a luncheon meeting of the World Affairs Council on Saturday, May 15 at the Holiday Inn, Highway 1 and Rio Rd., Carmel. Her topic will be The Status of Women in the World Today.

Lunch will be served at noon and the speech will begin at 1 p.m. Cost for lunch is $8.50 for World Affairs members and $9.50 for non-members. There is no charge to hear Ms. Hosken's talk.

Hosken will be honored at a reception from 4-6 p.m. Sunday, May 16 in the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall, 980 Fremont, Monterey. She will speak on Women and the World: Am I My Sister's Keeper?

The reception will benefit WIN News. It is co-sponsored by the Women's Studies Program of MPC and the Monterey Committee for Women's Events. Admission is free, but donations will be accepted.

Hosken, editor of WIN News which has been published since 1975, also wrote the International Directory of Women's Development Organizations published by the U.S. Agency for International Development. She is also the author and publisher of The Childbirth Picture Book, a basic illustrated guide to conception and childbirth used by healthcare workers in underdeveloped areas.

Hosken, who is convinced that the world would run more smoothly if women were given more decision-making power, says, "The skills inherent in women, of negotiating and compromising used in their daily lives, are so needed in the field on international affairs."

Hosken will also meet with local women who attended the United Nations Mid-Decade Conference for Women in Copenhagen in 1980.

Josh Jossi will present his repertoire of ballads, poems and stories

Ballads, Poems and Stories will be presented by Josh Jossi at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 14-15 at Cherry Hall, Guadalupe and Fourth, Carmel. The performance, sponsored by the Poetic Drama Institute/Cherry Foundation Theatre Project, will be repeated at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 16.

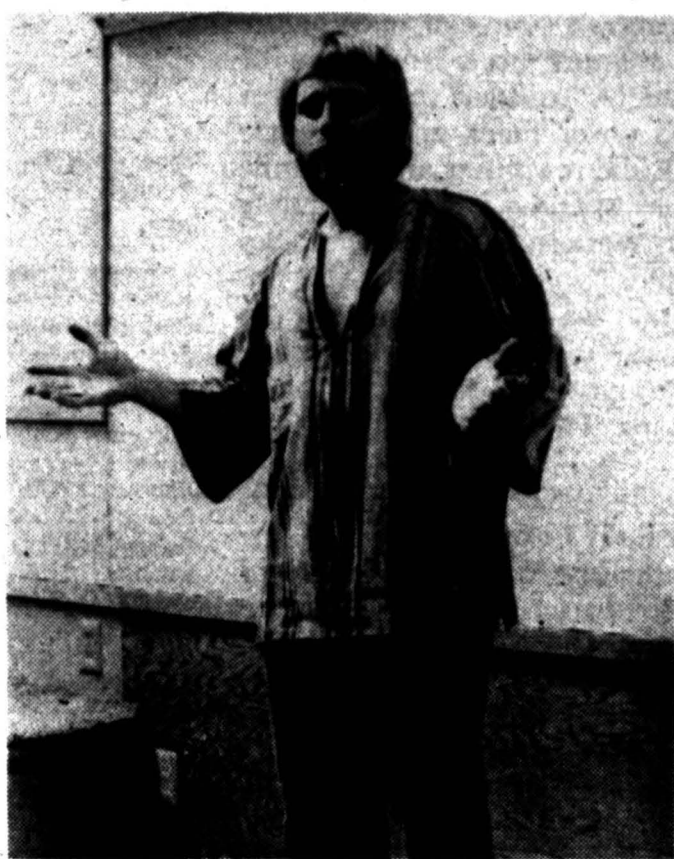

Jossi grew up in the outskirts of Pittsburgh, Pa., where his love of the outdoors and traveling was coupled with his love for literature and science. While attending Duke University, he learned to play the guitar. After one semester he left school to join the Merchant Marines. He sailed to Panama, Japan, Vietnam and the Philippines.

Jossi has roamed the United States, working as a welder, deckhand and roustabout in Louisiana; logger and firefighter in Oregon; and at various other jobs, including a stint on the oil rigs in the Gulf of Mexico.

In his search for inspiration and experience, Jossi studied Eastern mysticism, American Indian teachings and other philosophical and religious disciplines.

He currently lives on the Monterey Peninsula. The appearances this weekend mark his return to performing. Dan Gotch, artistic director of the Poetic Drama Institute/Cherry Foundation Theatre Project, has assisted with directing and editing.

Tickets are $3. For reservations and information, phone 624-7491.

POEMS, BALLADS AND STORIES performed by Josh Jossi reveal his varied background, experience and philosophies in dramatic and musical form. Jossi will appear at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 14 and 15, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 16 at Cherry Hall, Guadalupe and Fourth, Carmel.

Walk through Valley gardens during flower show

Early California, the 21st Annual Flower Show presented by the Carmel Valley Garden Association, is planned Saturday and Sunday, May 15 and 16 in the Tularcitos School multipurpose room, 35 Ford Rd., Carmel Valley. Show hours are 1:30-5:30 p.m. on Saturday and from 11 a.m.-4:40 p.m. on Sunday. There will also be a plant sale.

A Garden Walk to six Carmel Valley gardens is planned from 1:30-4 p.m. Sunday. Each garden has been selected for its individuality and beauty.

The six garden homes will include an English formal garden featuring roses; an extensive collection of succulents and cacti integrated into landscaping; a mini farm with orchards and flowers; a garden with oaks and native plants; an artist's garden featuring skillful use of color in an intimate garden; and a vineyard and home winery.

Refreshments will be served. A donation will be asked for the Garden Walk. Proceeds will benefit the Carmel Valley Library. For more information, phone 624-8892.

Cooks' Club will offer strawberry dessert recipes

Two demonstrations and a cooking class are planned this week by the chef at the Cooks' Club at the Peppercorn Restaurant, The Barnyard, Highway 1 and Rio Rd., Carmel.

A variety of strawberry desserts including strawberry mousse and Coquilles aux Fraises (scallop shell pastry cases filled with fresh strawberries and a rich cream sauce) will be prepared on Saturday, May 15.

Carne de Porco con Ameijoas a Alentejana, a Spanish dish of marinated pork cooked with tomatoes and cilantro and served with Spanish rice will be demonstrated on Sunday, May 16.

Both demonstrations are free and are presented from 10 a.m.-noon and from 1-3 p.m.

The chef will teach how to make flaky, buttery croissants from 6-9 p.m. Wednesday, May 19. The class will include making croissants with almond paste filling, shrimp and mushroom filling and pain au chocolate, croissant dough rolled up with chocolate inside.

Wine and salad will be served; participants should bring a bag to take some of their croissants home.

The cost of the class, recipes, wine and salad is $15. For more information, phone 625-0100.

All Saints' School Arts Program registration is open

The second annual All Saints' Arts Program/Summer 82 will begin June 21 and continue until July 2 from 9 a.m.-noon. A second session will run from 1-4 p.m. July 5-30 at All Saints' Episcopal Day School in Carmel Valley.

Classes and instructors include: drawing by Susan Manchester; watercolor by Bill Clausen; toy making by

Betsy Shea and Barbara Blevens; mural painting by Tony Raggett; acrylic painting techniques by Lucas Block; clay sculpture by Cynthia Colby Harris; folk art by Sue Mason; acrylic technique by Virginia Conroy; pottery wheel by Peter Hiller; drama for children by Bud Smith; calligraphy by Beva Farmer; and dance/gymnastics by Debby Lenz.

The classes are open to children and adults. Children must have completed first grade.

Each class will be one week long. Tuition is $50 per class; materials charges vary with each class.

For applications or further information, phone 624-9171.

Sunset Views

The Western lives in Sunset festival

By RICHARD TYLER

THE WESTERN film will obviously go on for a long time to come, hopefully with fresh insights and new excitements. But this year is an appropriate time to take stock, see how far the Western has come, and realize how long it has taken for it to be accepted seriously.

Although the recognition of the Western came in the silent era, it was too close to the actuality of the real West for Hollywood to have much perspective about it. Although the Western is often considered (wrongly) merely a showcase for action, it needed the refinements of sound and color.

The reality of the West depended upon intangibles: the sound of horses, the creaking of wheels, wind whipping the dust, to say nothing of the conviction that a weather-beaten face and an authentic drawl could bring to a line of dialogue.

The Western is often also a remarkable barometer of the time in which it was made. Periods of crisis and national emergency in American life have recognized the Western's propagandist values as a call to arms for unity and pride in national progress. The Epic Western was at its most prolific in these two periods — Wesley Ruggles' Cimarron (1931) and Fritz Lang's Western Union (1941).

The Western has also served the end of social comment (The Ox Bow Incident, Americana (Jesse James), racial themes (Robin Hood of El Dorado), comedy (The Beautiful Blonde from Bashful Bend), but most of all it has served the ends of virile, exciting narrative story telling (From Hell to Texas).

Regardless of the Western's potentialities for epic, visual beauty and political ways as a showcase for action and action stars. The humble "B" Western is often overlooked in serious studies of the genre yet many of them have real style. The "B" Westerns handled racial discrimination long before it was fashionable to do so in "A" movies; the "B's" commented on the problems of the dustbowl farmers a couple of years before The Grapes of Wrath and were even preparing Americans for the possibilities of war well before "A" product thought it was politic to do so. If Hollywood never made another single Western, the genre is already full and rewarding and has come full circle. We — and generations to come — could certainly survive quite happily on the rich Western heritage the movies have already given us over the past 75 years.

It is therefore with pleasure that we announce next year's Film Festival. Sunset Center has selected 10 of America's most renowned Western films featuring casts of some of the finest actors and actresses in film making. The films and their casts are as follows:

Sept. 14 — High Noon made in 1952 with Gary Cooper, Grace Kelly, Lloyd Bridges and Katy Jurado.

Oct. 12 — Red River, 1948 with John Wayne, Montgomery Clift, Joanne Dru and Walter Brennan.

Nov. 9 — The Ox Bow Incident, 1943 with Henry Fonda, Anthony Quinn and Dana Andrews.

Dec. 14 — Cowboy, 1953 with Alan Ladd, Van Heflin, Jean Arthur and Jack Palance.

Feb. 15 — Cimarron, 1931 version, with Richard Dix, Irene Dunne and Estelle Taylor.

Mar. 8 — The Big Country, 1958 with Gregory Peck, Charlton Heston and Carroll Baker.

Apr. 12 — Stagecoach, original 1939 version with John Wayne, Claire Trevor, Thomas Mitchell and John Carradine.

May 10 — Support Your Local Sheriff, 1969 probably one of the greatest spoofs of Westerns ever made starring James Garner, Joan Hackett and Walter Brennan.

June 14 — Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid, 1969 with Paul Newman, Robert Redford, Katharine Ross and Cloris Leachman.

These films represent the best of the American Western and are a cross section of the different styles and subjects that were covered by this genre. It decries the inhumanity of man and glorifies the heroics. There is drama and comedy and even a few Academy Award winners among the players and directors.

It is a program that will delight all theater-goers, both for its high quality and its moderate price. You can buy a season ticket admitting the purchaser to all 10 films for only $10. (Admission to individual films at the door will be $2). Sunset Center continues to bring this film series to the community as part of its program of encouraging participation and appreciation for the film arts.

Tickets may be purchased at the Director's office at Sunset Center. For further information, call 624-3996. The series begins on Tuesday, Sept. 14, and will continue on the second Tuesday of each month (except for the month of February, when it will be on the third Tuesday,) through June 14, 1983.

The Staff Players Repertory Company stages George Bernard Shaw's classic comedy, Androcles and the Lion, a glorious exploration of early Christianity in the Roman Empire. Shaw has a great deal to say about conversion, confusion and turning the other cheek.

Androcles and the Lion is presented at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Indoor Forest Theater, Santa Rita and Mountain View, Carmel. There will be a matinee at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 16.

Tickets are $5 general and $3 for students and seniors. Seating is limited. For reservations, phone 624-1531.

California's First Theater brings the fun and good humor of melodrama to the stage with From Rags to Riches. The audience is encouraged to boo and hiss the villain and cheer the hero as he rescues the damsel in distress! This 19th century production is performed by the Troupers of the Gold Coast.

Showtime is 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday throughout May. Admission is $4 adults, $3 teens and, on Friday, $2 for subteens.

Tickets may be purchased at the First Theater, Scott and Pacific streets, Monterey, after 1 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday. For further information, phone 375-4916.

The Colonial Monterey Foundation presents Columbus — In Search of the Indies, for two performances only at 2:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, May 15-16.

Columbus comes to life as an aged man who relates stories of his youth which taught him a love for the sea and a lust for adventure. The production is performed by the American Living History Theater.

Admission is $3.50. The production will be staged at the Kelley Gallery, 251 Alvarado, Monterey. For further information, phone 649-4283.

The Studio Theatre Restaurant presents two one-act English plays, Box and Cox and a Noel Coward play, Come Into the Garden.

Dinner is at 7 p.m. and the play begins at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. Dinner and curtain are one hour earlier on Sunday.

The price for dinner and the show is $16 on Thursdays, Fridays and Sundays and $16.50 on Saturday. Admission to the show only is $7.

The Studio Theatre Restaurant is located on Dolores near Ocean, Carmel. For reservations, phone 624-1661.

Hidden Valley Music Seminars presents the musical comedy, The Fantasticks, at 8 p.m. Off-Broadway's longest-running musical, the show captivates audiences with its tender, sweet romance and high-spirited fun.

The Fantasticks will be performed through May 16 at the Hidden Valley Theatre, Carmel Valley Rd., Carmel Valley. Performances are at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, and at 2:30 p.m. Sundays.

Tickets are $10 adults and $8 children.

The Naval Postgraduate School Little Theater presents Cole Porter's musical comedy Anything Goes.

Set in the 1930s, Anything Goes is a love story about an enterprising young man's adventures in his quest for romance.

The production begins at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 14-15 and 21-22 in King Hall Auditorium, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey.

Tickets are $3 advance and $4 at the door. For reservations, phone 646-2466.

The Masque and Wig Department of Pacific Grove High School presents Arthur Miller's award-winning play, The Crucible. The compelling drama about the Salem witch trials begins with a young girl's revenge and expands to involve an entire community in a reign of terror culminating in the hanging of 30 innocent people.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 14-15 and Wednesday-Friday, May 19-21 in the Sea Wing Theater, Pacific Grove High School, 615 Sunset Dr., Pacific Grove.

Admission is $3 adults and $2 students.

The Pawnshop Players of Carmel High School stage the hilarious comedy, Bedroom Farce, by Alan Ayckbourn, in Room 2, on campus, Ocean Avenue and Highway 1, Carmel.

Bedroom Farce is the story of Trevor and Susannah, a couple whose marriage is on the rocks. They inflict their miseries on their good friends and on Trevor's parents.

Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 14-15 and 21-22.

Admission is $3 adults and $1.50 students. Tickets are available at the door.

Lupetti exhibit to open at Gallery Americana

Fantasies of childhood, the tender relationships of mother and child and classic ballerinas are recurring themes in the highly detailed paintings by Carmel artist Lynn Lupetti. A one-woman show of her works will open at Miner's Gallery Americana with an artist's reception from 4-7 p.m. Saturday, May 15.

Lupetti was born in the San Francisco Bay Area and was graduated from San Jose State with a degree in art. Her interest in children led her to work as an illustrator and art director for children's books, including the prestigious Sullivan Language series. This was followed by a period of intense training in the disciplines of oil painting.

Since moving to Carmel, Lupetti has devoted her time to working with oils. In the last decade her work has been sold nationally. Her reputation in the art world is now securely established.

Lupetti is a professional, as reflected in the perfection of skin tone, clarity of detail and quality of composition in her new paintings.

The show will remain on view through May 31. Gallery Americana is at Lincoln and Sixth, Carmel.

Works by Carmel artist will be exhibited in Seaside

Graphics by Carmel artist James Rogers and stoneware by Pacific Grove potter Peggy Alonas will be exhibited through May at the Seaside City Hall Art Gallery, 440 Harcourt, Seaside.

Rogers, a 1981 graduate of Carmel High School, studied under Bill Stone, local artist and teacher. He has won numerous local and statewide art contests and is the only three-time winner of the Fidelity Savings Calendar Art Scholarship Contest.

Last year, Rogers was winner in a poster contest sponsored by the National Maritime Association. That poster now hangs in the Smithsonian Institution.

He works mainly in pen and ink, but is equally versatile in oil, pastels and watercolors. Examples of all these media are represented in the show.

Alonas's exhibition, Interest in Organic, is a collection of functional and non-functional pieces.

The shows are sponsored by the the Seaside Art Commission. The gallery is open from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The public is welcome at no charge.

DELICATE, BOTANICALLY accurate portrayals of common flowers, such as Iris with Larkspur, are the theme of paintings by Leslie Wainwright to be exhibited at Zantman Art Galleries, Sixth and Mission, Carmel. The exhibition will open with a reception from 5-9 p.m. Saturday, May 15. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served.

Wainwright's delicate flower portrayals will be exhibited

Flower paintings by Leslie Wainwright will be featured in a one-man show which opens Saturday, May 15 at the Zantman Art Galleries, Sixth and Mission, Carmel. The artist will be present at a reception from 5-9 p.m. Saturday. The public is welcome.

Like many English flower painters before him, Wainwright has a reverence for growing things that is evidenced in his delicate, botanically accurate portrayals of common flowers. The rustic charm and even the perfume of a luxuriant English country garden can be sensed in his renderings of daisies, geraniums, wildflowers, leaves and grasses.

Fresh, bright acrylic colors lend a spark of vitality to all of his works. His arrangements are casual and natural. The flowers look as if they had just been plucked from the garden and thrust into a simple vase, with no contrivance or artifice. The appeal is direct and unpretentious.

Wainwright was born in Leeds, Yorkshire, England in 1936. He was awarded the National Diploma of Design at Leeds College of Art in 1955.

After several years of teaching at secondary and college levels, he became chairman of the Art Department of the Montreal Academy. During this period, he was also involved with innovative theatrical design.

Since 1966, he has been painting full time, spending part of each year at this second home in San Antonio, Texas.

Zantman Art Galleries has exhibited Wainwright's floral paintings for the past three years.

The gallery is open from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday.

Petpourri
 Dog shows are fun and educational
 By JUDITH A. EISNER

THE CREME DE LA CREME of dogdom, all champions or blue-ribbon winners, will be in town this weekend for the 58th annual Del Monte Kennel Club on the manicured lawns of The Lodge, Pebble Beach. The show is scheduled Sunday, May 16 from 9 a.m. to approximately 4 p.m. when the Best in Show trophies are awarded to one superlative purebred canine.

For many years, the venerable Del Monte show grew on the crest of a wave of national interest in purebred dogs and dog-showing until it attracted more than 2,500 dogs each year. Then, two years ago, the club's directors decided to return to its old, limited-entry format that once earned it the nickname "The Blue Ribbon Dog Show" at which only champions or dogs who had earned championship points at other shows were permitted to compete.

Certainly, Del Monte must rank as one of the most scenically beautiful dog shows in the country, if not the world. An outdoor show, held on manicured green lawns, under clear blue skies (we hope) is an excitingly beautiful spectacle. The dogs themselves are bathed, combed, powdered and perfumed to their most glorious best and many spectators choose to dress up for this special occasion. The air is filled with the hum of human voices, bursts of applause, the call of the public address system and, above it all, the barking of nearly 500 dogs.

A DOG SHOW the calibre of Del Monte provides a rare opportunity to see outstanding examples of dogs of many different breeds. For a family that is thinking about getting a dog but isn't quite sure of the breed they want, the show offers an opportunity to observe and compare, to ask questions and to learn.

Although reading a good book about dogs is an invaluable aid in learning about them, seeing them "in person" is best. Frequently, printed descriptions are hard to understand for the novice and the list of terms can be confusing. Reading that a dog is 24 inches at the shoulder isn't really the same thing as seeing or standing next to one! People are often surprised that a particular breed looks the way it does in the show ring while the dogs they've seen elsewhere look different.

One reason is that grooming show dogs is an art seldom practiced on the same breed members that are kept as pets. Rarely does one see a poodle, whatever his size, in full show coat. Poodles are generally clipped down to more manageable haircuts for at-home living.

Secondly, many factors differentiate a show dog from a pet dog. A half inch in size or a few extra pounds can eliminate a member of the toy breeds from the show ring forever. Although slightly oversized or undersized dogs are every bit as good as pets, they may be disqualified from the ring and unwanted for breeding stock.

In some breeds, markings or mis-markings may make or break a show dog. In poodles, Irish setters and many other solid-colored dogs, a tiny patch of white is an automatic elimination from blue-ribbon winning; Dalmations, on the other hand, must have round, uniform spots all over their body. But the pet Dalmation you may know is no less a desirable dog because his spots are a bit uneven or "run together."

These fine points that make show dogs different from pet dogs of the same breed is what makes it possible for the public — for you and me — to own good purebred dogs. In any given litter of puppies, no matter how royally bred, there are usually some dogs that are earmarked as "show prospects" while the rest are sold at more reasonable prices as pets. The difference may be as negligible as length of ear or shape of a paw, but it permits well-bred dogs to be loved and admired and cared for as pets.

IF YOU PLAN to attend the Del Monte Kennel Club Show on Sunday, here are a few hints:

Be sure to stroll through the grooming areas at the periphery of the show grounds, where owners and professional handlers put the finishing touches to their charges' toilette. Watching an Old English sheepdog, collie, poodle or Afghan being combed out is an experience!

Pick up a show catalogue. It tells you "who" and "what" you're seeing and has interesting advertisements.

Listen and ask questions. Many of the people crowding ringside at dog shows are owners, breeders and exhibitors themselves. All doggy people love to talk, and most are generous of their time and knowledge with amateurs.

Although you may understand that the judge in each ring is trying to determine which dog is best according to its breed standard, it's sometimes difficult to grasp the fine points without someone to help. Usually, you can find a person who'll explain that bulldogs are supposed to "roll" when they walk; that German shepherds are gaited in a "flying trot;" that chows walk that way because they have "straight hocks" and much more.

Dog shows also provide a way to meet reputable breeders (who, in turn, are eager to meet prospective buyers) who may have puppies for sale. We don't believe it's a good idea to buy a puppy that may actually be available at a dog show because dogs shouldn't be spur-of-the-moment purchases, but good contacts can be made for future follow-up.

If you fall in love with a breed you've seen, talk to many people who own that breed, then go home and reflect a while. There's time enough to pick out and purchase a puppy in the future, when the excitement of the dog show is over.

CHRONIC PAIN

If you are the unfortunate victim of chronic pain, or one of those told you will just have to learn to live with aches and pains...

Clinical studies indicate that nothing could be further from the truth. Most victims of pain could be helped if they were less willing to accept pain on a permanent basis. Dramatic results are now achieved without the use of conventional drugs or surgery.

Red Cross Bloodmobile open today

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will accept blood donations from 3-6:30 p.m. today, Thursday, May 13 at the Carmel Valley Community Church, Paso Hondo and Village Dr., Carmel Valley.

For more information, phone 624-6921.

TWO CARMEL High School Future Farmers of America members received awards April 22 that culminated a 1982 farm project competition sponsored by Wells Fargo Bank. Gail Russell (right, gold award) and Nicki Backeberg (left, silver award) were honored at a banquet in Salinas. The girls won the awards for their work in an FFA-supervised project where students must demonstrate their proficiency in a variety of agricultural disciplines, farm mechanics, record keeping and the use of bank credits.

A plan to underground the utilities in Carmel Valley Village

A plan to put the utilities in Carmel Valley Village underground will be unveiled at a meeting of the Carmel Valley Village Improvement Committee May 18.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will be held at the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center on Ford Road at 7:30 p.m.

The $400,000 project, which will be paid out of a special Pacific Gas and Electric Co. fund, would encompass the utilities along Carmel Valley Road from Pirate to Esquiline Roads, according to Clarence Dake, special project engineer for the Monterey County Public Works Department.

The utilities involved include PG&E, Pacific Telephone, and Monterey Peninsula Cable Television. Representatives from those utility companies, Fifth District Supervisor William Peters and Dake are expected to attend.

Dake said discussion will center on the esthetic values and costs of the project.

Although PG&E will fund the original undergrounding costs, the property owners will have to pay for the connection between the building site and the street splice box, Dake said.

Dake estimated that cost would range from $500 to $3,000. The project will affect about 50 property owners, he said.

Dake said the next step would be for the board of supervisors to hold a public hearing to determine whether a special underground utilities district should be formed in the Carmel Valley Village area. That hearing would probably be held in mid-June.

If local property owners do not voice strong opposition and the district is approved by supervisors, work on the project could begin the spring of 1983. It would be completed within two months, Dake said.

Real estate and you

A service of the Carmel Board of Realtors

IF YOU'VE ever bought a home, or sold a home, and felt that you made the decision without enough information, here's some help.

The Carmel Board of Realtors has established a Consumer Protection Committee that is staffed by experts in the fields surrounding the sale of a home. In the coming weeks, articles will be appearing here that will answer such questions as:

- Must you, by law, have a pest control inspection?
- If you have one, what should it cost and who must do the work?
- What do you get for your money when you buy title insurance, and who should pay?
- If you feel you have been cheated, where can you go — short of court — for help & advice.
- What steps are involved — seen & unseen, common & uncommon — in the sale of a home?
- How do you deal with a difficult landlord or tenant?
- How are prices of homes for sale or rent determined?
- How do you judge performance of any of the many people involved in helping with a sale?
- What are some of the peculiarities of the different areas in sunshine, fog, TV reception, insurance?
- How do you call in an expert for help?
- How is the government involved in the sale of a home?

This is not a complete list, but gives an idea of the kind of scope the committee is aiming for.

The authors will be David Wittrock, realtor and chairman of the committee; Patsy Manning, escrow officer and president of the Monterey Bay Escrow Association; Dwight Bennett, pest control company owner and vice-president of the State Structural Pest Control Operators' Association; Laurie Rodriguez, area manager for a home protection plan underwriter; John Biason and Ron Henry, building contractors; Lois Carwin and Harriette Mason, realtors; and local experts in the fields of accounting, law, and government.

We hope you will enjoy it. More importantly, we hope that future decisions you make will be based on information, not hopes.

Carmel Valley Perfection

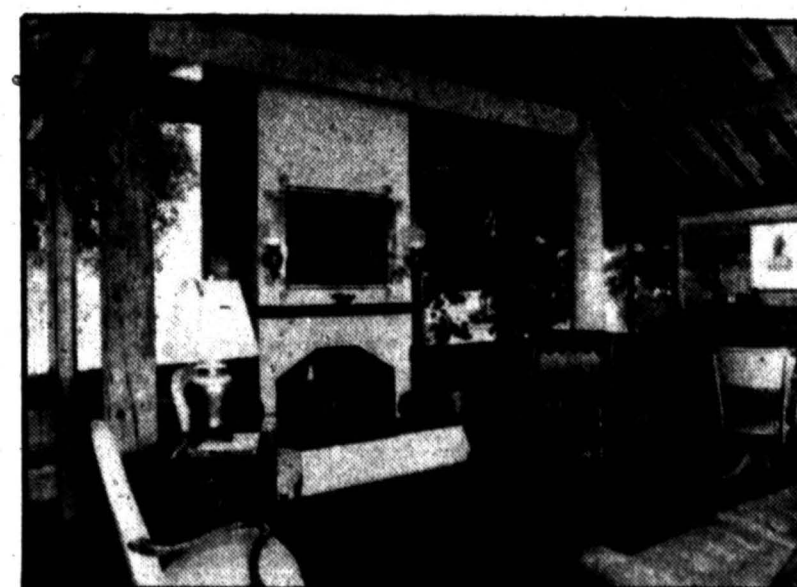

Nestled among oaks in a very private setting, with 360-degree views of the Santa Lucia mountain range to the sea, is this custom-built natural redwood home on approximately 1.8 acres. To approach the property, one ascends a road that leaves the world of noise and hustle behind. Sunshine, incredible views from every room, a swimming pool with jacuzzi surrounded by a delightful patio, fruit trees, vegetable garden, all with automatic sprinklers — are only a few of the highlights of this super property. Before you swim 20 laps in the pool, let us tell you about the beautiful wood and glass house. It's a superlative blend of country charm and elegant decor and contains three bedrooms, one is currently a stunning library with fireplace (pictured here), and three baths. The beauty and privacy of this Carmel Valley home are something you must experience for yourself.

GREAT FINANCING! With a substantial down payment, owner will carry a large second, terms to be negotiable. In addition, there is a very attractive assumable first loan on the property.

ENCHANTED COTTAGE

Step thru the gate and picket fence that surrounds these delightful English Gardens and Carmel stone patios, and you will be in another world! This charming cottage holds lots of delights for a family and has a guest house and guest studio for the children. Or ... be a "MEANIE" and bulldoze it all down and built 4 NEW HOUSES on 4 CARMEL lots! $450,000. C182J01.

AN OLDER ESTATE LOOKING FOR YOUNG ENTHUSIASM

Above the surf and spindrift, this majestic older four bedroom home overlooks the sun dappled Pacific at Fan Shell Beach. Both the overly large living room and family room have massive old brick fireplaces. There is a formal dining room and kitchen that expand into a bright and airy lanai with a unique Spanish tile floor. The traffic flow is perfect for easy entertaining. A separate maids wing or in-law quarters, overlooks the Cypress Point golf course. This unusual home, on over 1 1/2 acres, boasts an unrestricted view of the rugged coast from every room! The imaginative buyer will see a multi-million dollar future in this unsurpassed location. Priced for the young at heart. $925,000. C145AF4.

PITCH AND PUTT

Just a sea-breeze away from the ocean or walk to the Peter Hays Golf Course or spend a carefree day at the Pebble Beach Course, is your almost new French Normandy Villa. The spacious foyer is accented by a hand carved stairway which leads to 4 large bedrooms, each with its own bath. The tile work is an exquisitely executed as a crystal goblet! The banquet sized dining room and formal room, with its imported Louis XIV marble fireplace are a stunning contrast to the informality of the library with its bountiful bookshelves and wet bar. The kitchen with its fine oak cabinets and custom tile offers every convenience and elegant home should have. The gracious, young estate has a three car garage. $795,000. C132RE4.

WALK TO THE OCEAN THRU THE WOODS

Nestled in a forest setting and yet close to all the conveniences is this 4 bedroom, 2 1/2 bath home with family room with its own cozy brick fireplace all adjoining the kitchen which makes the perfect family gathering place. A large sunny deck leads to a fully fenced professionally landscaped yard backed by a lush greenbelt. Entertain with ease in the separate dining room and spacious, airy living room with openbeamed cathedral ceilings and lovely Carmel stone fireplace. Tremendous financing and priced to sell at $280,000. C193CC4.

CHRISTOPHER BOCK

What you see is what you get . . .
exactly!

Not every house, alas, is all it seems to be. But here there are no substitutes, no short cuts, no counterfeits.

What appears to be a 4-inch, tongue and groove, solid cedar planking laid diagonally in the dramatic, 2 story front hall is exactly that. What seems to be white stone facing on the front and on the wall-high chimney breast is white stone. What looks like brick-sized real tile paving the driveway and the series of descending terraces down the south side is real tile.

And so it goes throughout this brand new house: what you think you see is real. Brown ceramic tile counters and splashbacks in the kitchen and all 3 baths; solid oak cabinets, drawers and doors in kitchen, laundry, baths and everywhere; Thermopane (double) windows throughout; polished floors of redwood blocks in hallway, kitchen, dining and living rooms; top quality Whirlpool appliances (counter-top range, built-in oven, microwave, refrigerator and dishwasher) and luminous ceiling in the kitchen; lush carpeting in the 3 large bedrooms, upper hall, upper baths and most closets; custom hardware throughout; solid oak homemaker's desk just off the kitchen; a brass foot rail on the bar separating kitchen and dining room; a lazy Susan cabinet; electric outlets every place you hoped they'd be.

Fireplaces? Three — living room, master bedroom, and a free-standing model in bedroom No. 2. Beams? In living room, plus a ridge beam in most other rooms. Showers? Two big ones, plus a giant Jacuzzi tub. Mirrors? The bathrooms are positively embarrassing. A greenhouse roof? That's what covers the upstairs hall!

You'd think this place might be high on some remote hill. But not so! It's within 2 blocks south of Ocean Avenue, near the beach. And it has dramatic views of Point Lobos and the Bay!

All new. All fenced. All landscaped. 2400 sq. ft. $425,000.

SUPERB HOME SOUTH OF OCEAN AVENUE

FIRST TIME OFFERED ... the home you've always admired and dreamed about! It's an all-redwood, four-bedroom home of much charm on THREE lots in a coveted area of Carmel, only three blocks to the beach and a pleasant stroll to the village. You've often noticed the low stone fence in front, and behind it a lovely garden with gnarled oaks and beautiful begonias, setting off the one-story house like a jewel. And the house itself is no less attractive. For example, the living room offers a huge Carmel stone fireplace, vaulted ceiling, and a window seat at one end set in a large paned window. The pretty kitchen has been remodeled, and the bathrooms are up-to-date. A pleasure to see, a treasure to own! By appointment only. $600,000.

A HOME FOR THE DISCRIMINATING

TAKE A CHOICE corner double lot south of Ocean Avenue ... place on it a superbly maintained three-bedroom, three-bath home ... surround it with lovely gardens, including a sunny, secluded patio to the rear. Make sure the master bedroom, dining room, and kitchen look out to the patio. Arrange the spacious living room into several conversational groupings, with one in front of the fireplace. There you have the recipe for Carmel living in the finest tradition! Ask us about the financing, then submit your offer! $475,000.

Pebble Beach

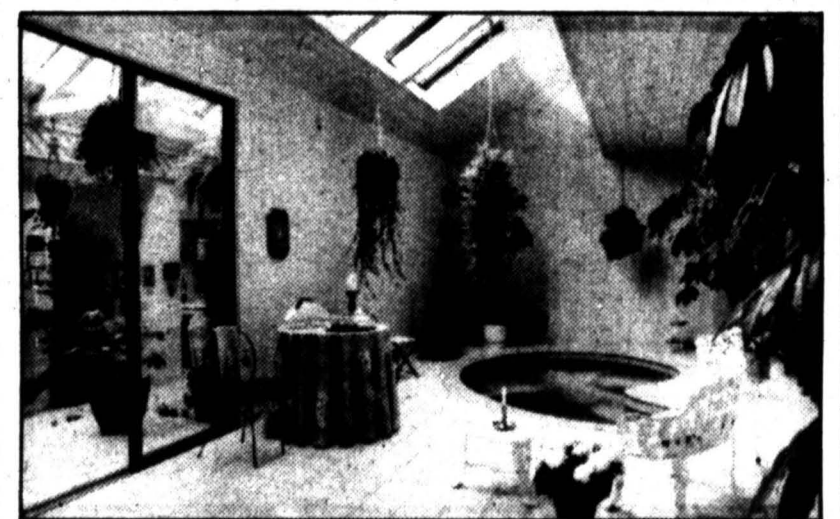

Inside the masonry wall secluding an acre site, a driveway curves past pines to the sweep of steps leading into this shingle-roofed, stucco home with the captivating ambience of an Old World manor house featuring high windows framing ocean vistas, vaulted and coffered ceilings, handsome oak cabinetry, tile and richly carpeted floors, wainscotings and wallpapers, also wide windowsills and four fireplaces.

Carved wood corbels and mantel frame the marble fireplace in the formal drawing room across the imposing entry from the dining room with moldings outlining wallpaper panels.

A stone fireplace is in the living room with breakfast bar division from a tile-countered kitchen with cooktop island. A few steps above the living room is a hall off which are a bathroom and two bedrooms, each with a walk-in wardrobe. Off the living room, too, also sharing a wet bar with it, the skylighted garden room contains informal dining space.

Sliding glass doors from the garden room open to this paneled room with a tiled jacuzzi pool, adjacent sauna, shower and exercise rooms, also convenient access to the luxurious and compartmented bath/dressing area of the master suite with a French marble fireplace gracing the bedroom.

The game room with fourth fireplace is up a short stairway as are, also, a bathroom and the study with ceiling beams, bookcases, window framing and wainscoting of oak. Increasing desirability are a utility room, dark room, wine cellar, three-car garage and three patios. Price of this property emphasizing elegance, also comfort, is $1.35 million.
